Soviet Spurns Disarmament Plea By West

Russians Propose Treaty Renouncing Nuclear Weapons

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—Russia rejected today a Western appeal to join in a new start on disarmament. The Soviets proposed instead that the world agree on a treaty renouncing the use of nuclear weapons and any other force in settling disputes.

Soviet Dep. Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko put the Russian plan before the 12-nation U.N. Disarmament Commission at the end of an hour-long speech blasting the western position on disarmament and President Eisenhower's plan for aerial inspections.

Western sources indicated the Gromyko resolution was old stuff with little prospect of getting anywhere.

Ike Plan Called "Notorious"

Just a few hours after U.S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. had expressed hope that Russia eventually would accept the President's proposal, made at the Geneva summit conference, Gromyko scathingly called the sky patrol plan "notorious."

Gromyko said the Soviet government did not consider that discussion of this subject in the commission "will do any good for anybody," adding:

"It opens no door out of the deadlock in which we find ourselves."

Anthony Nutting, British minister of state and a long-time opponent of Gromyko in the disarmament field, opened the commission session today. He offered a resolution for Britain, France, Canada and the United States urging the commission to endorse a set of basic principles of disarmament and atomic control.

Speed Termed Vital

Nutting said the commission and its five-power subcommittee must "come to grips with this problem before it is too late and before this power of infinite devastation has passed beyond all hope of human control."

Lodge seconded Nutting's stand and told the Russians that approval of the President's proposal for mutual aerial inspection for disarmament would go a long way toward making agreement possible.

Gromyko said that in listening to Nutting he seemed to hear "the bell tolling the doom of the disarmament problem."

Voting Is Heavy In Okla. Primary

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 3 (AP)—A surprisingly heavy vote was reported in Oklahoma's primary election today to end one of the dullest campaigns in recent years.

Heated local races were given mainly as the reason for the unanticipated turnout in 100-degree weather. Both Democrat and Republicans picked party nominees.

There was some activity in the 6th Dist. congressional race, but otherwise candidates for national offices stirred little interest.

Rep. Victor Wickersham, who gained national attention for his real estate deals recently, was battling it out with Dist. Judge Toby Morris, a former congressman, for the 6th Dist. Democratic nomination.

Sen. Mike Monroney was expected to have little trouble in getting the Democratic nomination for a second term. He is expected to draw Douglas McKeever, Enid attorney who resigned as head of the state Republican party, as his general election opponent. McKeever had minor opposition in the primary.

Evidence Found Planes Collided

WANTS DECORATOR — Mrs. Marjorie Jean Miller, 36, Cleveland, said yesterday she would forsake her home, husband and four daughters for an interior decorator. Judge Samuel H. Silbert of Common Pleas Court told her "either you give up your brazen conduct with this other man and go back home as a dutiful wife and mother, or else." Mrs. Miller said she wanted the other man, an interior decorator. (AP Photofax)

Paint Scratches To Be Analyzed

GRAND CANYON, Ariz., July 3 (AP)—Investigators found today what they termed "positive" evidence that a collision in flight preceded the crash of two giant airliners which killed 128 in commercial aviation's worst disaster.

Capt. Byrd Ryland, leader of a search and rescue team from March AFB, Calif., said blue paint scratches were discovered on metal torn from a Trans World Airlines Superconstellation.

The Constellation, carrying 70 persons, and a United Air Lines DC7 with 58 aboard crashed into Grand Canyon buttes less than a mile apart Saturday on flights eastward from Los Angeles.

Scratches To Be Analyzed

Ryland said the blue paint scratches were found on metal scraps believed to have been torn from the belly of the Constellation. He called the scratches "positive indications of collision in flight."

"The boys are going down tomorrow and cut the scratched pieces out and bring them back for laboratory analysis," he said.

United spokesmen said their plane was painted blue on the nose, had blue stripes on the tail and along the side windows.

TWA reported the only blue paint on its Constellation was in a flag painted on the side.

More Remains Recovered

Ryland said the fact that the pieces were scattered over such a wide area indicated that at least one of the planes "broke up in the air."

Coroner Shelby McCauley of Coconino County told newsmen he believed the Civil Aeronautics Board had found enough evidence "so that it could be said to be definite that the planes collided."

Meanwhile, the last helicopter load of remains of victims was flown from the TWA wreckage and efforts continued to reach the main part of the DC7 ruins on a more inaccessible butte.

And, in Washington, as an aftermath of the Grand Canyon tragegy, the House Commerce Committee ordered a general investigation of airline traffic practices and controls.

House Unit Votes To Up Payments To Disabled Vets

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP) — A general 10 per cent boost in payments to veterans for service-connected disabilities won unanimous approval today of the House Veterans Affairs Committee.

Chairman Teague (D-Tex), describing the bill as "moderate," said the Democratic leadership of the House favors action on it during the present session of Congress. But because of the lateness of the session, its chances in the Senate were viewed as uncertain.

It would add an estimated 172 million dollars the first year to disability compensation payments which now run about $1,800,000,000 annually. Teague said the cost is expected to be somewhat smaller in future years.

2,000,000 Affected

All but about 20,000 of the 2,084,230 veterans now receiving service-connected disability payments would get increases.

The bill provides a flat increase of 10 per cent in present payments ranging from $17 a month for 10 per cent disability to $163 a month for 90 per cent disability. Those rated 100 per cent disabled would get a boost from $181 to $225, about 24 per cent.

Payments to dependents of service-disabled veterans also would be upped 10 per cent. Other increases would be in compensation rates specifically set by law for loss of limbs and eyesight, with the maximum boosted from $420 to $450 a month.

Companion To Pension Bill

The bill increasing payments for service-connected disabilities is a companion measure to the controversial nonservice-connected pension bill passed by the House last week. The latter measure started out as an omnibus veterans bill, but was stripped down sharply during a hectic House floor fight. As finally passed by the House and sent to the Senate, it would provide a $90 a month pension at 65 to low-income veterans of World War I.

Debt Limit Bill Sent President

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Senate passage today sent to President Eisenhower a bill putting a temporary ceiling on the national debt at 278 billion dollars during the fiscal year ending next June 30.

This is three billion dollars above the permanent ceiling of 275 billion dollars but three billion dollars less than the temporary ceiling of 281 billion that has been in effect the past two years and which expired last Saturday.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey advised Congress he would have to have the smaller temporary ceiling in the year ahead in order to tide him over periods of low corporation income tax collections.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), who presented the bill to the Senate, said he was "measurably pleased" with the three billion dollar reduction in the temporary limit but he was "not completely satisfied."

Byrd said the Eisenhower administration has constantly stepped up its spending, particularly on nonmilitary programs, and Congress has been on a "spending spree."

Soviet Diplomat Expelled On Charge Of Espionage

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Col. Ivan A. Bubchikov, who was stationed at the Soviet Embassy here for 18 months, was expelled from the United States 10 days ago on a charge of engaging in espionage activities.

The expulsion was announced today by the State Department. It immediately raised speculation that the Soviet government would retaliate, as it has in the past, by ordering a comparable American officer out of the embassy at Moscow.

Bubchikov was assigned to the Soviet diplomatic mission here in December, 1954, as assistant military attache. The details of the activity which led up to his ouster were not disclosed. But there was some reason to believe he had been trapped in a spy operation by U. S. military intelligence agents.

In military circles it was reported that the Russian colonel's activities were believed to have been detected at an early stage. Apparently he had been kept under observation and enough learned of his work so that a few weeks ago American agents were able to catch him in circumstances which left no doubt among responsible officials that he was guilty.

The note declaring the colonel personally unacceptable to the U.S. government was given to Ambassador Georgi Zarubin by Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy, officials said. It left no alternative but for the Soviet government to withdraw the official.

Wilson, Demo Critics Clash On Air Power

Defense Secretary Denies B52 Speedup Has Been Ruled Out

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson clashed with some of his Democratic critics today in a tense Senate hearing that produced blunt words about heavy bomber production and less serious comment on the natural instincts of whales.

Wilson told a special Senate subcommittee investigating U. S.-Russian air strength that he has not ruled out a new speedup in production of long range B52 jet bombers. He said this might come after the bomber program is reviewed in the fall.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) asked how many more billions the Defense Department would ask next year in new appropriations.

"It is going up a billion or two?" Jackson asked.

"That would be a fair guess," Wilson replied.

Defense appropriations for the fiscal year that began Sunday total about 35 billion dollars. President Eisenhower signed the money bill yesterday.

Another point touched on in the stormy hearing was Wilson's use of the word "phony" in a discussion of senate consideration of this measure.

Whale Story

When a subcommittee member suggested Wilson often gets in trouble by making off-the-cuff remarks, the defense boss said he was reminded of this statement, which he credited to a Mama whale instructing her calf:

"It's only when you are blowing that you are liable to be harpooned."

In the course of the hearing Wilson expressed resentment at some questions put to him, accused one senator of trying to "put words in my mouth," and said he was "due an apology" from some others.

Jackson suggested Wilson was trying to "hide behind security" in ducking some questions. And, at another point, Jackson accused the secretary of making a "false" statement.

Making his third appearance before the group, Wilson was again asked what he intends to do with an extra 800 million dollars in Air Force funds which Congress voted last week over his objections.

Based On "Sound Plan"

Wilson, who said yesterday the added money would be "put in the bank" for possible use later, testified he has not ruled out using it to build more B52s. But he said the current production goal of 20 B52s a month is about as "fast" and "efficient" as the job can be done, considering production, personnel and base needs. And he added:

"We haven't got to the 20-a-month yet."

Wilson said current goals are based on a "sound plan" adding, "I'm not saying it won't be changed."

In touching on his use of the word "phony" at a news conference two weeks ago, Wilson told the senators the term wasn't meant to apply to them—a point he has made before.

Referring to the strong Senate criticism which he said he "innocently stirred up," Wilson said, "it wouldn't be out of order for certain senators to apologize to me."

Boy Pulls Bullet Out Of His Head With Scissors

TUCSON, Ariz., July 3 (AP) — Roger Stafford, 13, pulled a bullet out of his head with a pair of scissors last night after he had accidentally shot himself with his father's .22 calibre revolver.

The boy said he was in the house alone cleaning the gun when it accidentally discharged.

"I felt something knock against my head," he said. "I ran into the bathroom and looked in the mirror. The tip of this bullet was sticking out of my head above my right eye.

"I got scissors and poked the bullet out. Then I messed around the house for a half hour until my dad came home."

Handshake After Sharp Exchange

House Votes 164-116 For Antisegregation Rider In School Bill

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Climaxing a round of rough and ready debate over racial segregation, the House late today tentatively voted an antisegregation rider into a 1½ billion dollar federal school construction bill.

The unrecorded 164-116 vote in favor of the amendment sponsored by Rep. Powell (D-NY) still is subject, however, to possible reversal on a final rollcall vote. This vote is expected Thursday or Friday when the House completes action on the measure.

Action on the Powell amendment, preceded by bitter and personal exchanges during debate, overshadowed other developments as the school aid measure was opened to revision.

Chief among them was a compromise reached by the bill's sponsors setting on a five-year 1½ billion dollar program of federal school construction grants at the rate of 300 million a year.

Rep. Roosevelt Criticized

It was accepted by the House as a settlement of differences between the four-year $1,600,000,000 program contained in the House Education Committee's bill, and the five-year 1¼ billion dollar grant program recommended by President Eisenhower.

The compromise was offered by Rep. Frelinghuysen (R-NJ) and approved without a record vote.

In debate preceding the Powell amendment, Rep. Rivers (D-SC) criticized Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif) for supporting the antisegregation amendment.

"No family has done more to hurt my people than the family from which he comes," Rivers said.

Adoption Seen Killing Bill

Rivers, looking at Roosevelt, added that "every day we see articles by members of his family which Rivers said "hurt our people."

Roosevelt made no reply, but Rep. Green (D-Ore) retorted that "no family has done more for America, and especially the South, than the Roosevelt family."

The vote in favor of the Powell amendment followed statements by many members, both Republicans and Democrats, that its adoption would kill federal school aid legislation at this session of Congress.

Americans Take To Highways; 130 Deaths Forecast

[By The Associated Press]

Millions of Americans took to the highways last night in the start of an Independence Day observance the National Safety Council estimates may result in 130 traffic deaths.

The council and the International Assn. of Chiefs of Police called for a rigid enforcement crackdown against law violators and irresponsible drivers.

Tight enforcement, they said, might hold the holiday toll to no more than 80, a normal figure for a Wednesday in early July. The holiday period runs from 6 p.m. (local time) Tuesday to Wednesday midnight.

For comparative purposes, The Associated Press conducted a nationwide survey of traffic deaths in the 30-hour period from 6 p.m. June 19 to midnight June 20. There were 66 traffic deaths, 21 drownings, and 21 violent deaths from miscellaneous causes for an overall total of 108.

Kills Four And Self

BUSTO ARSIZIO, Italy, July 3 (AP)—A 30-year-old baker's boy killed his former employer, the employer's wife and son and a police sergeant today in a two-hour rampage with a submachine gun. He wounded six others.

Finally, barricaded in a doorway he ended his own life by turning his submachine gun against his head.

Plane Sabotage Bill Sent To White House

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to President Eisenhower today a bill providing heavy penalties—including death—for sabotaging any aircraft used in interstate or foreign commerce.

The measure was introduced after an airliner blew up over Colorado on Nov. 1 of last year, with a loss of 44 lives. The explosion was blamed on a bomb concealed within the plane.

The bill, worked out by a Senate-House conference committee, was passed by the House yesterday.

The measure provides for imprisonment for up to 20 years and for fines of as much as $10,000 for sabotage or attempted sabotage. It authorizes the death penalty, upon the recommendation of a jury, in cases of sabotage resulting death.

Ike Does "Little Putting" On His Private Golf Green

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower worked a little today, walked a little, and for the first time since his intestinal operation he got out his putter and stroked a score of practice shots.

White House press secretary secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower seemed to enjoy the outing on his private golf green thoroughly.

But there was no indication when the President might feel up to fulltime golf, fulltime work or some pronouncement on post-operative political intentions.

Getting in what he called the customery question, a reporter asked Hagerty:

"When is the President going to reaffirm his intention to stay in the race for the presidency?"

"Gee," Hagerty replied with a grin, "they do it differently each time. I haven't any comment."

In the way of official business, the convalescing chief executive signed nine bills and set up a conference for Thursday or Friday to get a quick, personal report from Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, on Twining's recent trip to Moscow.

All in all, this fourth day of recuperation at his country estate was a quiet one for the President. And it looks as if the July Fourth holiday tomorrow will be, too.

Hagerty said Eisenhower has no special plans for the Fourth and would have no official visitors. However, the surgeon who performed the June 9 intestinal operation on the President, Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, still is a house guest of the Eisenhowers, along with Mrs. Heaton.

Agreement Will Give Philippines Title To Bases

MANILA, July 3 (AP)—The United States and the Philippines announced a deal on the delicate question of military bases today shortly after the arrival of Vice President Nixon.

Nixon is here to represent President Eisenhower at the tenth anniversary celebration tomorrow of the Philippines' independence from the United States.

The United States now has agreed to give the Philippines ownership of all U. S. bases in the islands. The Philippines agreed to contribute more land to strengthen the system.

Bolster Common Defense

The two governments—allied in the eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization to hold back communism—decided on expansion of U. S. bases to "bolster the common defense of the two countries as well as of the free world in this area."

Nixon and Philippine President Ramon Magsaysay made the agreement public after a two-hour conference with Magsaysay.

The decision superseded Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell's 1953 opinion that the United States kept title to the bases when it gave the Philippines independence on July 4, 1946.

Philippines Issue

It came in the wake of a Philippine congressional committee's demand that the United States relinquish all claims to the bases, limit their number to three and cut the term of their leases from 99 to 10 or 20 years.

Magsaysay's political opponents had been using the issue to embarrass his pro-American administration. He said last week he favored expanding the U. S. bases for the republic's security after settlement of the "fundamental problems" of ownership, sovereignty, jurisdiction and delimitation.

Health Survey Bill OK'd

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed a bill setting up a continuing national health survey by the Public Health Service.

Vital Defense Construction Gets Priority

Directive Prepared As Strike Begins To Strangle Economy

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The government has decided to place a temporary freeze order on selective steel products in warehouses needed for defense production—effective Friday.

Officials confirmed today such an order has been prepared and is to be issued Thursday and become effective Friday.

The order is designed to freeze critical steel items for defense producers, principally contractors of the Defense Department and Atomic Energy Commission because of the nationwide steel strike.

The freeze is expected to last only a short period, possibly for no longer than two weeks. During this period defense contractors could acquire or put under order such items as stainless steel tubing, carbon plate and alloy bar in the quantities they might need for the foreseeable future.

This will be aimed at assuring that necessary defense construction and production go on as long as possible with steel stocks on hand and that nondefense users do not acquire defense needed supplies.

Layoffs Due To Strike Increase To 40,000

PITTSBURGH, July 3 (AP)—Effects of the 3-day-old nationwide steel strike crept across America today. Unemployment in steel-related industries idled nearly 40,000 in addition to 650,000 striking steelworkers.

A few small companies suspended production for the duration of the contract dispute between the United Steelworkers and 90 per cent of the basic steel industry. Other firms cut work schedules.

One small steel company, continuing to produce under an extended labor contract with retroactive provisions, jumped the price of steel $9 a ton in anticipation of its additional labor costs.

There was no sign of an early settlement. Negotiators for the union and industry appeared to be marking time until after the July Fourth holiday.

The Federal Mediation Service has arranged separate meetings with union and industry negotiators for Thursday in an attempt to revive bargaining. Negotiations were broke off six hours before the strike started Saturday at midnight.

Economists said the Sunday start of the strike and the midweek holiday will dull the early impact of the steel industry shutdown on U. S. business in general.

The railroads took the first cuts. They already have posted furlough notices for nearly 30,000. Freight shipments of finished steel and its raw materials are a major portion of railroad business.

LaClede Christy Co., producer of refractory materials for the steel industry, closed six plants in five states, idling 1,400 workers. The shutdown is for the duration of the strike.

Fretz-Moon Tube Co. said it was unable to get steel for its pipe production and closed its plant at Butler, Pa., where 250 are employed.

Harbison - Walker Refractories Co., with 33 plants and as many more clay mines across the nation, reduced work schedules by one day this week. The company said 3 and 4-day schedules are planned for next week.

Research Lab To Fire Huge Rocket Today

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N.M., July 3 (AP)—Probably the first and surely the biggest rocket to be fired on Independence Day in this region has nothing to do with the holiday.

It will be an Aerobee Interim-Hi rocket, expected to zoom almost 100 miles straight up after a firing set for one minute after midnight.

The rocket is being fired by the Naval Research Laboratory in total darkness—with no cigarettes or other lights permitted — in hopes of learning more about the mysterious "night-air glow" that has long puzzled and irritated astronomers.

The expulsion was announced today by the State Department. It immediately raised speculation that the Soviet government would retaliate, as it has in the past, by ordering a comparable American officer out of the embassy at Moscow.

Bubchikov was assigned to the Soviet diplomatic mission here in December, 1954, as assistant military attache. The details of the activity which led up to his ouster were not disclosed. But there was some reason to believe he had been trapped in a spy operation by U. S. military intelligence agents.

In military circles it was reported that the Russian colonel's activities were believed to have been detected at an early stage. Apparently he had been kept under observation and enough learned of his work so that a few weeks ago American agents were able to catch him in circumstances which left no doubt among responsible officials that he was guilty.

The note declaring the colonel personally unacceptable to the U.S. government was given to Ambassador Georgi Zarubin by Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy, officials said. It left no alternative but for the Soviet government to withdraw the official.

Wilson, Demo Critics Clash On Air Power

Defense Secretary Denies B52 Speedup Has Been Ruled Out

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson clashed with some of his Democratic critics today in a tense Senate hearing that produced blunt words about heavy bomber production and less serious comment on the natural instincts of whales.

Wilson told a special Senate subcommittee investigating U. S.-Russian air strength that he has not ruled out a new speedup in production of long range B52 jet bombers. He said this might come after the bomber program is reviewed in the fall.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) asked how many more billions the Defense Department would ask next year in new appropriations.

"It is going up a billion or two?" Jackson asked.

"That would be a fair guess," Wilson replied.

Defense appropriations for the fiscal year that began Sunday total about 35 billion dollars. President Eisenhower signed the money bill yesterday.

Another point touched on in the stormy hearing was Wilson's use of the word "phony" in a discussion of senate consideration of this measure.

Whale Story

When a subcommittee member suggested Wilson often gets in trouble by making off-the-cuff remarks, the defense boss said he was reminded of this statement, which he credited to a Mama whale instructing her calf:

"It's only when you are blowing that you are liable to be harpooned."

In the course of the hearing Wilson expressed resentment at some questions put to him, accused one senator of trying to "put words in my mouth," and said he was "due an apology" from some others.

Jackson suggested Wilson was trying to "hide behind security" in ducking some questions. And, at another point, Jackson accused the secretary of making a "false" statement.

Making his third appearance before the group, Wilson was again asked what he intends to do with an extra 800 million dollars in Air Force funds which Congress voted last week over his objections.

Based On "Sound Plan"

Wilson, who said yesterday the added money would be "put in the bank" for possible use later, testified he has not ruled out using it to build more B52s. But he said the current production goal of 20 B52s a month is about as "fast" and "efficient" as the job can be done, considering production, personnel and base needs. And he added:

"We haven't got to the 20-a-month yet."

Wilson said current goals are based on a "sound plan" adding, "I'm not saying it won't be changed."

In touching on his use of the word "phony" at a news conference two weeks ago, Wilson told the senators the term wasn't meant to apply to them—a point he has made before.

Referring to the strong Senate criticism which he said he "innocently stirred up," Wilson said, "it wouldn't be out of order for certain senators to apologize to me."

Boy Pulls Bullet Out Of His Head With Scissors

TUCSON, Ariz., July 3 (AP) — Roger Stafford, 13, pulled a bullet out of his head with a pair of scissors last night after he had accidentally shot himself with his father's .22 calibre revolver.

The boy said he was in the house alone cleaning the gun when it accidentally discharged.

"I felt something knock against my head," he said. "I ran into the bathroom and looked in the mirror. The tip of this bullet was sticking out of my head above my right eye.

"I got scissors and poked the bullet out. Then I messed around the house for a half hour until my dad came home."

Handshake After Sharp Exchange

Secretary of Defense Wilson (left) and Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) shake hands at the end of a Senate Armed Forces subcommittee hearing yesterday which was marked by a wordy question and answer duel between the two men. At one point, Wilson told Jackson: "Senator, you can't put words in my mouth." (AP Photofax)

House Votes 164-116 For Antisegregation Rider In School Bill

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Climaxing a round of rough and ready debate over racial segregation, the House late today tentatively voted an antisegregation rider into a 1½ billion dollar federal school construction bill.

The unrecorded 164-116 vote in favor of the amendment sponsored by Rep. Powell (D-NY) still is subject, however, to possible reversal on a final rollcall vote. This vote is expected Thursday or Friday when the House completes action on the measure.

Action on the Powell amendment, preceded by bitter and personal exchanges during debate, overshadowed other developments as the school aid measure was opened to revision.

Chief among them was a compromise reached by the bill's sponsors setting on a five-year 1½ billion dollar program of federal school construction grants at the rate of 300 million a year.

Rep. Roosevelt Criticized

It was accepted by the House as a settlement of differences between the four-year $1,600,000,000 program contained in the House Education Committee's bill, and the five-year 1¼ billion dollar grant program recommended by President Eisenhower.

The compromise was offered by Rep. Frelinghuysen (R-NJ) and approved without a record vote.

In debate preceding the Powell amendment, Rep. Rivers (D-SC) criticized Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif) for supporting the antisegregation amendment.

"No family has done more to hurt my people than the family from which he comes," Rivers said.

Adoption Seen Killing Bill

Rivers, looking at Roosevelt, added that "every day we see articles by members of his family which Rivers said "hurt our people."

Roosevelt made no reply, but Rep. Green (D-Ore) retorted that "no family has done more for America, and especially the South, than the Roosevelt family."

The vote in favor of the Powell amendment followed statements by many members, both Republicans and Democrats, that its adoption would kill federal school aid legislation at this session of Congress.

Plane Sabotage Bill Sent To White House

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to President Eisenhower today a bill providing heavy penalties—including death—for sabotaging any aircraft used in interstate or foreign commerce.

The measure was introduced after an airliner blew up over Colorado on Nov. 1 of last year, with a loss of 44 lives. The explosion was blamed on a bomb concealed within the plane.

The bill, worked out by a Senate-House conference committee, was passed by the House yesterday.

The measure provides for imprisonment for up to 20 years and for fines of as much as $10,000 for sabotage or attempted sabotage. It authorizes the death penalty, upon the recommendation of a jury, in cases of sabotage resulting death.

Americans Take To Highways; 130 Deaths Forecast

[By The Associated Press]

Millions of Americans took to the highways last night in the start of an Independence Day observance the National Safety Council estimates may result in 130 traffic deaths.

The council and the International Assn. of Chiefs of Police called for a rigid enforcement crackdown against law violators and irresponsible drivers.

Tight enforcement, they said, might hold the holiday toll to no more than 80, a normal figure for a Wednesday in early July. The holiday period runs from 6 p.m. (local time) Tuesday to Wednesday midnight.

For comparative purposes, The Associated Press conducted a nationwide survey of traffic deaths in the 30-hour period from 6 p.m. June 19 to midnight June 20. There were 66 traffic deaths, 21 drownings, and 21 violent deaths from miscellaneous causes for an overall total of 108.

Kills Four And Self

BUSTO ARSIZIO, Italy, July 3 (AP)—A 30-year-old baker's boy killed his former employer, the employer's wife and son and a police sergeant today in a two-hour rampage with a submachine gun. He wounded six others.

Finally, barricaded in a doorway he ended his own life by turning his submachine gun against his head.

Ike Does "Little Putting" On His Private Golf Green

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower worked a little today, walked a little, and for the first time since his intestinal operation he got out his putter and stroked a score of practice shots.

White House press secretary secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower seemed to enjoy the outing on his private golf green thoroughly.

But there was no indication when the President might feel up to fulltime golf, fulltime work or some pronouncement on post-operative political intentions.

Getting in what he called the customery question, a reporter asked Hagerty:

"Gee," Hagerty replied with a grin, "they do it differently each time. I haven't any comment."

In the way of official business, the convalescing chief executive signed nine bills and set up a conference for Thursday or Friday to get a quick, personal report from Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, on Twining's recent trip to Moscow.

All in all, this fourth day of recuperation at his country estate was a quiet one for the President. And it looks as if the July Fourth holiday tomorrow will be, too.

Hagerty said Eisenhower has no special plans for the Fourth and would have no official visitors. However, the surgeon who performed the June 9 intestinal operation on the President, Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, still is a house guest of the Eisenhowers, along with Mrs. Heaton.

Agreement Will Give Philippines Title To Bases

MANILA, July 3 (AP)—The United States and the Philippines announced a deal on the delicate question of military bases today shortly after the arrival of Vice President Nixon.

Nixon is here to represent President Eisenhower at the tenth anniversary celebration tomorrow of the Philippines' independence from the United States.

The United States now has agreed to give the Philippines ownership of all U. S. bases in the islands. The Philippines agreed to contribute more land to strengthen the system.

Bolster Common Defense

The two governments—allied in the eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization to hold back communism—decided on expansion of U. S. bases to "bolster the common defense of the two countries as well as of the free world in this area."

Nixon and Philippine President Ramon Magsaysay made the agreement public after a two-hour conference with Magsaysay.

The decision superseded Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell's 1953 opinion that the United States kept title to the bases when it gave the Philippines independence on July 4, 1946.

Philippines Issue

It came in the wake of a Philippine congressional committee's demand that the United States relinquish all claims to the bases, limit their number to three and cut the term of their leases from 99 to 10 or 20 years.

Magsaysay's political opponents had been using the issue to embarrass his pro-American administration. He said last week he favored expanding the U. S. bases for the republic's security after settlement of the "fundamental problems" of ownership, sovereignty, jurisdiction and delimitation.

Health Survey Bill OK'd

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed a bill setting up a continuing national health survey by the Public Health Service.

Vital Defense Construction Gets Priority

Directive Prepared As Strike Begins To Strangle Economy

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The government has decided to place a temporary freeze order on selective steel products in warehouses needed for defense production—effective Friday.

Officials confirmed today such an order has been prepared and is to be issued Thursday and become effective Friday.

The order is designed to freeze critical steel items for defense producers, principally contractors of the Defense Department and Atomic Energy Commission because of the nationwide steel strike.

The freeze is expected to last only a short period, possibly for no longer than two weeks. During this period defense contractors could acquire or put under order such items as stainless steel tubing, carbon plate and alloy bar in the quantities they might need for the foreseeable future.

This will be aimed at assuring that necessary defense construction and production go on as long as possible with steel stocks on hand and that nondefense users do not acquire defense needed supplies.

Layoffs Due To Strike Increase To 40,000

PITTSBURGH, July 3 (AP)—Effects of the 3-day-old nationwide steel strike crept across America today. Unemployment in steel-related industries idled nearly 40,000 in addition to 650,000 striking steelworkers.

A few small companies suspended production for the duration of the contract dispute between the United Steelworkers and 90 per cent of the basic steel industry. Other firms cut work schedules.

One small steel company, continuing to produce under an extended labor contract with retroactive provisions, jumped the price of steel $9 a ton in anticipation of its additional labor costs.

There was no sign of an early settlement. Negotiators for the union and industry appeared to be marking time until after the July Fourth holiday.

The Federal Mediation Service has arranged separate meetings with union and industry negotiators for Thursday in an attempt to revive bargaining. Negotiations were broke off six hours before the strike started Saturday at midnight.

Economists said the Sunday start of the strike and the midweek holiday will dull the early impact of the steel industry shutdown on U. S. business in general.

The railroads took the first cuts. They already have posted furlough notices for nearly 30,000. Freight shipments of finished steel and its raw materials are a major portion of railroad business.

LaClede Christy Co., producer of refractory materials for the steel industry, closed six plants in five states, idling 1,400 workers. The shutdown is for the duration of the strike.

Fretz-Moon Tube Co. said it was unable to get steel for its pipe production and closed its plant at Butler, Pa., where 250 are employed.

Harbison - Walker Refractories Co., with 33 plants and as many more clay mines across the nation, reduced work schedules by one day this week. The company said 3 and 4-day schedules are planned for next week.

Research Lab To Fire Huge Rocket Today

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N.M., July 3 (AP)—Probably the first and surely the biggest rocket to be fired on Independence Day in this region has nothing to do with the holiday.

It will be an Aerobee Interim-Hi rocket, expected to zoom almost 100 miles straight up after a firing set for one minute after midnight.

The rocket is being fired by the Naval Research Laboratory in total darkness—with no cigarettes or other lights permitted — in hopes of learning more about the mysterious "night-air glow" that has long puzzled and irritated astronomers.

Rebel Workers Go On Trial In Red Poland

BERLIN, July 3 (AP)—Red Poland today brought scores of rebel workers into court in the first of a series of mass purge trials in Poznan.

The courts were set up especially to handle participants in the three-day "bread and freedom" uprising in the industrial city of 365,000.

"The people of Poznan are so frightened about the massive retaliation measures of the Communists that they just don't even dare to speak," reported a West German businessman arriving by train from Poznan.

Poznan was swept with rumors that the Reds already have executed some of the revolt leaders. But there was no confirmation and a Communist informant arriving in Berlin denied this was the case. He said:

"The Polish government must be very careful. They will observe all the laws and correct procedures because they know the whole world is watching Poznan."

The Communist, who is not a Pole, asked that his name be withheld. He said he toured Poznan during the latter part of the revolt and spoke to senior Polish officials.

The trials which began today, the informant said, were for the "secondary" violators among the hundreds of workers arrested.

He reported the Warsaw government is holding two workers—"Matiya and Wilgash" — ringleaders of the revolt and they will be among those prosecuted in "political trials."

He claimed that many of the workers originally arrested have been released after interrogation.

Meanwhile, the Red Polish regime threw the whole weight of their propaganda machine into whipping up popular feeling in the country against the Poznan insurgents.

"Workers in Polish factories held rallies to express their indignation at the Poznan provocation and demand severe punishment of the gang leaders," reported ADN, the Communist East German news agency.

In Poznan, the Communist administration put on today what travelers leaving the city called a "show" funeral for soldiers, police and Communist officials killed in the uprising.

An estimated 200 to 300 people died in the fierce street fighting and travelers said most of the rebel dead "are being disposed of quietly."

The "show funeral" and big Communist propaganda campaign were seen by experts in Berlin as bracing the country for stiff sentences to be meted out to rebels at the trials.

Hoodlum Slain 10 Days After Leaving Prison

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP)—Mariano Dellernia's profession before he went to prison 10 years ago was sticking up bookmakers, a dangerous practice in some underworld circles.

So when the 31-year-old hoodlum got out of Dannemora just 10 days ago, there apparently were people waiting for him.

Last night, Dellernia was mowed down by two shotgun blasts as he was about to enter his Brooklyn apartment house after attending a prize fight. A pal, George Cuono, who witnessed the slaying, said the killers were two men in a black sedan.

Visit By Nixon To Red Satellite Nations Vetoed

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The State Department today was reported to have blocked a trip Vice President Nixon considered making behind the Iron Curtain.

Top officials vetoed the proposed visit to Eastern European satellite countries including Poland, when they were asked for advice.

Nixon is now in the Philippines on the first stop of a Far Eastern tour he is making as President Eisenhower's representative. He has broadened this trip to include visits to Indochina, Formosa and possibly other Far East nations.

Reasons For Turndown

Responsible informants who told of Nixon's idea of a flying visit into Eastern Europe said these reasons undoubtedly played a role in rejecting the trip:

1. It would serve to give a premature stamp of American approval to the new, softer Russian policy at a time when top officials want the Soviets to make even more far reaching changes in their rule.

2. A visit by the No. 2 man of the Eisenhower administration behind the Iron Curtain would encourage American Allies to undertake large scale cultural-economic exchanges with the Communist world. The State Department favors a go-slow policy in such exchanges, fearing it would be the signal for the Soviets to flood into newly independent lands where they would stir up trouble.

Trip Would Aid GOP At Polls

Nixon wanted to travel into such countries as Poland and Czechslovakia to dramatize the administration's continuing interest in their plight as captive peoples. He felt such a high level visit would demonstrate anew America's refusal to reconcile itself to the permanent loss of freedom in the satellite countries.

Such a visit could have been helpful to the Republicans in attracting the votes of Polish-American, Czech-American and other foreign language groups.

Strange Virus Resembles Polio

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The Public Health Service said today a third of the cases diagnosed as infantile paralysis in last year's great outbreak may have been caused by a strange virus against which "the Salk vaccine probably has no effect."

Dr. Theodore J. Bauer, the service's top communicable diseases expert, urged the Senate Appropriations Committee to approve a supplemental $480,000 appropriation for further research. He said it is "a major problem" which could not have been foreseen earlier.

"Recently analyses of reports and laboratory tests have disclosed," Bauer said, "that a great many of the nearly 30,000 cases reported in 1955 by practicing physicians and state health departments as poliomyelitis could not be identified in the laboratories as poliomyelitis.

"Polio virus could be recovered in the laboratory in only one-half of the total reported paralytic cases examined, and in only one-sixth of the non - paralytic cases. In all reported poliomyelitic cases (paralytic and non-paralytic) about one-third could not be confirmed by laboratory tests."

Bauer said "many other types of viruses" were found by the laboratory research, "most of which are not properly identified or evaluated as to their effects upon humans."

Kefauver Deplores High Court Criticism

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D - Tenn) said today some recent criticisms of the Supreme Court "are truly subversive of our form of government."

Without using names, Kefauver said in a Senate speech that some of his colleagues have called the court "pro - Communist," "insolent," "willful" and "irresponsible."

"The shrill, stident voices of those who seek to undermine the rule of law can not be unanswered," Kefauver said. He added that some recent criticisms of the court "go beyond legitimate bounds and, what is worse, are truly subversive."

Air Traffic Probe Set By House Unit

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—A general investigation of airline traffic practices and controls, including the circumstances which led to Saturday's crash of two airliners in the Grand Canyon, was ordered today by the House Commerce Committee.

Chairman Priest (D-Tenn) said the investigation will be as broad as possible and may take a long time.

"We expect to take in everything that has to do with air traffic, controls, traffic patterns and the like," Priest told reporters.

Priest named a subcommittee headed by Rep. Harris (D-Ark) to conduct the inquiry. The subcommittee will meet Thursday to make plans for it.

Officials of airlines and government regulatory bodies will be among the witnesses called, Priest said.

Ike Signs Marker Bill

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP) — President Eisenhower signed into law today a bill under which markers could be erected in national cemeteries in memory of members of the armed forces who were killed or died on active duty and whose bodies were not recovered.

Previously such markers were erected only for those reported "missing in action."

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The Public Health Service said today a third of the cases diagnosed as infantile paralysis in last year's great outbreak may have been caused by a strange virus against which "the Salk vaccine probably has no effect."

Dr. Theodore J. Bauer, the service's top communicable diseases expert, urged the Senate Appropriations Committee to approve a supplemental $480,000 appropriation for further research. He said it is "a major problem" which could not have been foreseen earlier.

"Recently analyses of reports and laboratory tests have disclosed," Bauer said, "that a great many of the nearly 30,000 cases reported in 1955 by practicing physicians and state health departments as poliomyelitis could not be identified in the laboratories as poliomyelitis.

"Polio virus could be recovered in the laboratory in only one-half of the total reported paralytic cases examined, and in only one-sixth of the non-paralytic cases. In all reported poliomyelitic cases (paralytic and nonparalytic) about one-third could not be confirmed by laboratory tests."

Bauer said "many other types of viruses" were found by the laboratory research, "most of which are not properly identified or evaluated as to their effects upon humans."

Kefauver Deplores High Court Criticism

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) said today some recent criticisms of the Supreme Court "are truly subversive of our form of government."

Without using names, Kefauver said in a Senate speech that some of his colleagues have called the court "pro-Communist," "insolent," "willful" and "irresponsible."

"The shrill, student voices of those who seek to undermine the rule of law can not be unanswered," Kefauver said. He added that some recent criticisms of the court "go beyond legitimate bounds and, what is worse, are truly subversive."

Air Traffic Probe Set By House Unit

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—A general investigation of airline traffic practices and controls, including the circumstances which led to Saturday's crash of two airliners in the Grand Canyon, was ordered today by the House Commerce Committee.

Chairman Priest (D-Tenn) said the investigation will be as broad as possible and may take a long time.

"We expect to take in everything that has to do with air traffic, controls, traffic patterns and the like," Priest told reporters.

Priest named a subcommittee headed by Rep. Harris (D-Ark) to conduct the inquiry. The subcommittee will meet Thursday to make plans for it.

Officials of airlines and government regulatory bodies will be among the witnesses called, Priest said.

Ike Signs Marker Bill

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP) — President Eisenhower signed into law today a bill under which markers could be erected in national cemeteries in memory of members of the armed forces who were killed or died on active duty and whose bodies were not recovered.

Previously such markers were erected only for those reported "missing in action."

Hospital Needs More Nurses For Polio Cases

BALTIMORE, July 3 (AP) — City Hospitals, which normally handles polio cases for the entire state, pleaded today for more nurses to care for iron lung patients. If more nurses aren't available, it warned, it might be necessary to stop admitting patients.

P. J. McMillan, hospitals superintendent, made the statement as the polio season got underway.

"We must have more nurses, or we're going to reduce our number of polio patients," he said flatly.

His statement was released with the approval of Dr. Edward Davebs, assistant state Director of Health.

McMillan said it required four nurses to each respirator case. One nurse had to be on duty all the time, and one for relief.

"Four nurses to each respirator case is not an ideal," he said. "It is a necessity. This patient needs constant care. Helpless, unable to breathe, cough or swallow, the respirator case can die in a matter of 10 seconds. The nurse must be there to keep him from being suffocated by his own fluids.

"We were not able to give this kind of nursing care last year. We had 19 respirator cases. We did not have four nurses for each patient. We would put the respirators in a circle and put what nurses we could in the middle. This was not the proper care.

"Even then, our nurses worked overtime and on their days off.

"We cannot operate like this again. We cannot be responsible for the care of patients when we do not have the staff to provide proper treatment."

Police Policy Pays Off

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP)—Police Commissioner Stephen Kennedy says a policy of putting more policemen on the beats has paid off by a 16.5 per cent reduction in major crimes in New York city last year.

Favorable Weather Aids Harvest Of Small Grains

COLLEGE PARK, Md., July 3 (AP)—Favorable growing weather has enabled Maryland and Delaware farmers to move along with their harvest of small grains.

At the end of last week throughout the two-state area, two-thirds of the barley, half of the oats, one-third of the rye and one-fourth of the wheat had been combined, with progress more advanced in the southern counties.

Soybeans were making excellent progress in most areas, The Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service said, although Japanese beetles were reported on both soybeans and corn in Sussex County.

Harvest of the second crop of alfalfa was in full swing in the southern counties, with the quality of the crop considered good. Farther north the second crop was beginning to bloom. Alfalfa fields were somewhat shorter in growth in the northern sections.

Snap beans in north central Maryland are making good to excellent progress, according to the crop reporters. In Wicomico County about three-fourths of the early crop had been harvested at week's end.

Potato leaf hoppers were found on beans and potatoes in Montgomery and Dorchester counties. The pea harvest west of the Chesapeake Bay was well advanced at the end of the week.

Some aphid damage to lima beans was reported in Sussex County, Delaware but crop prospects were good. Wicomico limas were past full bloom and podding fast.

Cucumber picking is under way in the earliest sections of the Delmar Peninsula. Cantaloupes had a good fruit set on early vines and watermelons were growing vigorously and beginning to form crown fruit in the same areas.

The crop reporters said tomatoes are sizing nicely on the southern tip of the Eastern Shore. Picking for the green wrap market are expected to begin next week.

Some sweet corn in north central Maryland is tasselling.

Injunction Against Homeopathic Doctor Group Is Extended

BALTIMORE, July 3 (AP)—Judge Reuben Oppenheimer extended today an injunction against a group of homeopathic doctors who sought to serve as an examining board.

The State contends Dr. Robert H. Reddick, psychiatrist at the Eastern Shore State Hospital, and others in his group are not the valid homeopathic board.

Norman P. Ramsey and James H. Norris Jr. of the attorney general's office, said Reddick has continued to act despite his resignation as secretary-treasurer of the State Examining Board of Homeopathy.

The court also was told that a number of applicants given examinations by the Reddick group were not properly qualified.

Judge Oppenheimer's new order extends the temporary injunction for 30 days or until a trial can be held. Ramsey noted the defendants' answers are due on July 11 and said he would ask a prompt hearing after that date.

Education Board To Hear Appeals For Integration

BALTIMORE, July 3 (AP)—A federal judge was told today that Negro children in St. Mary's County may appeal their request for integrated schools to the State Board of Education.

And the president of the board, Wendell D. Allen, told Judge Roszel C. Thomsen that such an appeal would be given a "very prompt" hearing.

Allen and Norman P. Ramsey, deputy attorney general for Maryland, appeared before Judge Thomsen, who is considering whether an integration suit brought by the National Assn. for the advancement of Colored People properly belongs in federal court.

The suit charges that the school board in St. Mary's County has refused to desegregate public schools and has not even devised a plan for doing so.

The first National Guard unit (militia) was organized in 1638.

Doris Ann Platt To Become Bride Of Lt. Patrick Helms

Ceremony To Be August 25

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Platt of 227 Hillside Avenue, Charlotte, North Carolina, formerly of 757 Cleveland Avenue, city, announce the coming marriage of their daughter, Miss Doris Ann Platt, to Lt. Patrick G. Helms, son of Mrs. John Helms, Jackson, Ohio, and the late Mr. Helms.

The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized August 25 at 5 p. m. in the Selwyn Avenue Presbyterian Church, Charlotte.

Miss Platt is a graduate of Allegany High School, city, in 1951, and received her BS degree in education in 1955 from Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. While there she was president of her dormitory and active in Kappa Phi, Methodist girls' club, and a member of Mortar Board. The past year the bride-elect has been teaching fourth grade in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Her fiance is a graduate of Jackson High School in Jackson, Ohio, class of 1948. Following graduation he was in the Submarine Service in 1949-50, stationed on the USS Cutlass. Mr. Helms spent four years at Ohio University and graduated in June 1955 with a BS degree in education and minors in history and biological sciences. He is a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity and on the Inter-Fraternity Council. Mr. Helms is now a second lieutenant in the Air Force and is stationed at Bainbridge Air Base in Georgia, where he is in primary flight pilot training.

It is estimated that, by 1960, the United States will have 16 million persons over 65 drawing 10 billion dollars in retirement funds.

Choir Is Entertained

The Adult Choir of First Presbyterian Church was entertained at a barbecue dinner Sunday evening in the garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John I. Robinette, 809 Catskill Avenue.

Rev. Maurice Robertson offered the invocation. John McVicker, choir director, extended greetings and expressed his appreciation for the group's support and cooperation. The evening was spent informally.

Others attending were Mrs. Robertson, Shirley, Martha, Ann, and James Robertson; Mr. and Mrs. John J. Robinson Sr., Dr. and Mrs. John J. Robinson Jr., Scott and Donald Robinson; Mrs. S. T. Weatherholt, Mark, Sue and Betty Jane Weatherholt; Mr. and Mrs. David LaFon, Brenda LaFon; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Duke, John, Janet and Linda Duke; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Higgins, Nancy Lee Higgins; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heacox; Mrs. Lawrence Nugent, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stallings, Jane and Barbara Stallings; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Duke, Brenda and Beth Duke; Mr. and Mrs. James Conrad, Linda Conrod, Mrs. Harold Stitely and Mrs. McVicker.

MRS. ROBERT EDGAR BENNETT JR.

Robert Edgar Bennett Jr. Weds Evelyn Marie Swaine

Miss Evelyn Marie Swaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Swaine, 1480 Hughes Street, Eugene, Oregon, became the bride of Robert Edgar Bennett Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edgar Bennett, LaVale Terrace, LaVale.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized in Friendly Street Church of God, Eugene, June 17 at 4 p. m. by Rev. A. A. Blankenship, pastor of the Church of God, Montesano, Wash. Baskets of pink and white gladioli with babybreath and candelabra of lighted tapers decorated the church.

Miss Janet Bauer of West Linn was the bride's maid of honor; while Miss Almae Johnson, Portland; and Miss Ann Thingvall of Eugene were her bridesmaids, and Betsy Ann Finders, Portland, flower girl. Lee Finders, Portland, served as Mr. Bennett's best man, and Robert Worlein and Steve Brannan were the ushers.

"At Dawn" and "Ich Liebe Dich" were sung by Morse Trine.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white taffeta, with two layers of net over the floor-length skirt. The fitted bodice with short sleeves featured a triple pointed neckline. Her fingertip-length veil of nylon tulle was held by an open crown headdress of seed pearls and translucent sequins. Completing her costume, she carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Her attendants wore gowns of taffeta with net overskirts, made complementary to the bride's. Miss Bauer's was yellow and she carried a nosegay of white and pink carnations with yellow ribbons. Miss Johnson's was lavender and her nosegay of white and pink carnations with lavender ribbon. Miss Thingvall's was light green, with green ribbons tying her nosegay of white and pink carnations. The flower girl wore a pink frock.

Mrs. Swaine chose a rose lace gown with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. With it she had a corsage of white carnations.

The bride is a senior at the University of Oregon. The bridegroom is a junior, majoring in accounting, at the University of Oregon.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall. Mrs. A. Blankenship presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Lee Finders, sister of the bridegroom poured coffee. Mrs. Morse Trine cut the wedding cake.

The bride's going-away costume was a pink linen suit, with black patent leather slippers and purse, white hat and gloves.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett are residing at 225-10 Cheshire, Eugene.

Ceremony To Be August 25

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Platt of 227 Hillside Avenue, Charlotte, North Carolina, formerly of 757 Cleveland Avenue, city, announce the coming marriage of their daughter, Miss Doris Ann Platt, to Lt. Patrick G. Helms, son of Mrs. John Helms, Jackson, Ohio, and the late Mr. Helms.

The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized August 25 at 5 p. m. in the Selwyn Avenue Presbyterian Church, Charlotte.

Miss Platt is a graduate of Allegany High School, city, in 1951, and received her BS degree in education in 1955 from Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. While there she was president of her dormitory and active in Kappa Phi, Methodist girls' club, and a member of Mortar Board. The past year the bride-elect has been teaching fourth grade in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Her fiance is a graduate of Jackson High School in Jackson, Ohio, class of 1948. Following graduation he was in the Submarine Service in 1949-50, stationed on the USS Cutlass. Mr. Helms spent four years at Ohio University and graduated in June 1955 with a BS degree in education and minors in history and biological sciences. He is a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity and on the Inter-Fraternity Council. Mr. Helms is now a second lieutenant in the Air Force and is stationed at Bainbridge Air Base in Georgia, where he is in primary flight pilot training.

It is estimated that, by 1960, the United States will have 16 million persons over 65 drawing 10 billion dollars in retirement funds.

Choir Is Entertained

The Adult Choir of First Presbyterian Church was entertained at a barbecue dinner Sunday evening in the garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John I. Robinette, 809 Catskill Avenue.

Rev. Maurice Robertson offered the invocation. John McVicker, choir director, extended greetings and expressed his appreciation for the group's support and cooperation. The evening was spent informally.

Weatherholt, Mark, Sue and Betty Jane Weatherholt; Mr. and Mrs. David LaFon, Brenda LaFon; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Duke, John, Janet and Linda Duke; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Higgins, Nancy Lee Higgins; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heacox; Mrs. Lawrence Nugent, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stallings, Jane and Barbara Stallings; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Duke, Brenda and Beth Duke; Mr. and Mrs. James Conrad, Linda Conrod, Mrs. Harold Stitely and Mrs. McVIcker.

MRS. ROBERT EDGAR BENNETT JR.

Robert Edgar Bennett Jr. Weds Evelyn Marie Swaine

Miss Evelyn Marie Swaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Swaine, 1480 Hughes Street, Eugene, Oregon, became the bride of Robert Edgar Bennett Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edgar Bennett, LaVale Terrace, LaVale.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized in Friendly Street Church of God, Eugene, June 17 at 4 p. m. by Rev. A. A. Blankenship, pastor of the Church of God, Montesano, Wash. Baskets of pink and white gladioli with babybreath and candelabra of lighted tapers decorated the church.

Miss Janet Bauer of West Linn was the bride's maid of honor; while Miss Almae Johnson, Portland; and Miss Ann Thingvall of Eugene were her bridesmaids, and Betsy Ann Finders, Portland, flower girl. Lee Finders, Portland, served as Mr. Bennett's best man, and Robert Worlein and Steve Brannan were the ushers.

"At Dawn" and "Ich Liebe Dich" were sung by Morse Trine.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white taffeta, with two layers of net over the floor-length skirt. The fitted bodice with short sleeves featured a triple pointed neckline. Her fingertip-length veil of nylon tulle was held by an open crown headdress of seed pearls and translucent sequins. Completing her costume, she carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Her attendants wore gowns of taffeta with net overskirts, made complementary to the bride's. Miss Bauer's was yellow and she carried a nosegay of white and pink carnations with yellow ribbons. Miss Johnson's was lavender and her nosegay of white and pink carnations with lavender ribbon. Miss Thingvall's was light green, with green ribbons tying her nosegay of white and pink carnations. The flower girl wore a pink frock.

Mrs. Swaine chose a rose lace gown with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. With it she had a corsage of white carnations.

The bride is a senior at the University of Oregon. The bridegroom is a junior, majoring in accounting, at the University of Oregon.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall. Mrs. A. Blankenship presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Lee Finders, sister of the bridegroom poured coffee. Mrs. Morse Trine cut the wedding cake.

The bride's going-away costume was a pink linen suit, with black patent leather slippers and purse, white hat and gloves.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett are residing at 225-10 Cheshire, Eugene.

Summer Fashions Bare Complexision Faults

The best-dressed girl this summer will be the one with the best complexion. It certainly looks that way from the new fashions in bathing suits, play suits, and summer dresses — plenty of complexion will be showing, and not just from your forehead to your chin.

Your all-over complexion may have developed roughness and coarseness or flaky dryness in spots that weren't noticed up to now. Give them the brush-off, literally. Such unattractive blemishes as pebbled skin and rough patches can be scrubbed off with a good stiff body brush and plenty of warm soapsuds. And then there's an extra skin softener that does wonders — one that's so simple you can make it yourself.

Choose any one from today's array of well-designed brushes made especially for the bath, the long-handled kind that reaches down your back or the oval brush on plastic tapes that permits it to be whisked back and forth and up and down for a thorough all-over scrub. Lather the brush and with a brisk rotary motion, cover every inch of body skin. It's a wonderful feeling -- the freshness that comes with soaking up the cleansing suds and the healthy glow that comes with stimulated circulation.

Afterward, massage roughened places on knees, ankles, feet, and elbows with your own special concoction, a jelly of soap in very little water to which you've added a spoonful or two of salad oil. Rub this into the skin faithfully after every daily bath, and don't forget that the entire skin of the legs and even the upper parts of the outer arms and the area across the shoulder blades may need the satiny softening it can do. The skin isn't as fine textured there as it is on many other parts of the body. It may have a tendency to roughness which you don't notice until you touch it, but which will soon be all too plain to see.

Board Grants Two Beer Licenses

Two beer licenses were approved by the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages Licenses Commissioners yesterday at meeting which Walter C. Capper, board chairman, was unable to attend.

Calvin A. Landis was awarded a Class A off-sale beer license for premises on Westernport Road in McCoole. Flota Landis held a license at those premises during the year which ended April 30.

L. C. McKenzie was granted a Class D beer and wine license for premises in Cresaptown effective Friday. A license there formerly was held by Irene Thompson.

Although Judge Capper was unable to attend because of a court trial which took him to Hagerstown Monday, he submitted a report of cash expenditures for the fiscal year which began June 1, 1955, which shows that the board spent only $17,064.48 of the $19,500 budgeted for the year. As a result $2,435.52 is being returned to the county commissioners.

Driver In Fatal Accident Released

The State's Attorney's office said yesterday that John Lewis Diehl, 36, of Mt. Savage, driver of the pulpwood truck which collided with and killed a motorcyclist Friday night, has been released on his own recognizance.

Investigation of the mishap in which Carl Parker, 31, of Luke, died instantly under the rear dual wheels of the truck in the collision at the foot of Grant Street in Frostburg, has failed to reveal any indication of negligence on the part of Diehl, they said.

Authorities indicated no charges would be placed against Diehl at this time.

Hampshire Co. Jury Returns 3 Indictments

Three indictments, including a negligent homicide charge in a fatal automobile accident, were returned yesterday by the Hampshire County, W. Va., grand jury which met in Romney.

Prosecuting Attorney Ralph Haines said the July term of the grand jury was completed in a single session yesterday after Judge Harlan M. Calhoun of Moorefield gave the charge to the jury.

An indictment was returned against Lee Randolph Linaburg, Winchester, Va., charging malicious assault in the stabbing with a knife of R. Stewart Lee on April 22. Lee was hospitalized with wounds of the back and head after the altercation.

A grand larceny charge was placed against Donald Paul Hager of Kingwood for the theft of $50 from the safe of the Alpine Theatre in Romney on June 17. Hager had been a former manager of the theatre.

The negligent homicide charge, a misdemeanor, was brought against John Mosorjak, 32, of Baltimore, the driver of one of two cars involved in a fatal head-on collision on Route 50 about five miles east of Romney on April 2.

Mrs. Cora Alice Lewis, 76, of Augusta, W. Va., was killed in the auto mishap and four other persons, including Mosorjak and his wife, Ruby Mosorjak, 30, were critically hurt. The others injured were Harold Lewis, 51, and Mrs. Cora L. Lewis, 49, his wife, both of Romney. Lewis, son of the fatally hurt woman, was the driver of the other car.

Peacock Killed At City Park

Constitution Park authorities are continuing the investigation into the death of a pet peacock named "Prettyboy."

Robert R. Golden, park superintendent, said the pet was apparently killed by children from one of the playgrounds, who came to the park last week without a supervisor.

He said it is believed one of the children poked a stick through the fence and broke the peacock's neck.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 3 (INS)—Kim Novak's reward for bringing the crowds in to see "The Eddy Duchin Story" is the colorful role of Jeanne Eagles in the life story of one of the all-time great actresses. Kim will make the Jeanne Eagles story next, and Daniel Fuchs already is at work on the script.

If you ever saw the delicate, beautiful Jeanne in "Rain," you know what special charm and talent this frail girl possessed. Many years ago when I was on the Morning Telegraph, one of the most famous columnists in the country was Rennold Wolf, who was desperately in love with Jeanne, about whom he wrote so much. He was very much broken up when they parted after a quarrel at a New Year's Eve party.

Harry Cohn, who has been picking them pretty well these last few years, believes that a newcomer named James Darren is headed for big things.

Young Darren, 20 years old, was brought to Columbia by David Selznick's niece Joyce Selznick, who also discovered Tony Curtis. Darren has many of the qualities of Tony, and if he does as well as the Curtis lad he will, indeed, carve out a career for himself.

June Allyson writes from Munich that Dick Powell is so enchanted with Germany that he can't keep film in his camera, he's shooting so much of the scenic splendor.

June also adds that her very pretty secretary and good friend, Barbara Salisbury, has her first movie role in "Interlude."

"Barbara has always wanted to be an actress," says June. "Ricky and Pamela, our two children, are in a sequence with other children learning to sing."

One of the most important purchases of last week was made by Charles Vidor, who bought "Honey From a Dark Hive" by Bernice Kavinsky. He'll make this after he finishes "The Joker Is Wild."

The book, which is just now coming out, is an Abie's Irish Rose idea, with a young Jewish boy falling in love with a Catholic girl and the problems they face with both families.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Twenty-two-year old David Andrews, Dana's son, has received his greetings from Uncle Sam.

The Cameron Mitchells celebrate their 16th wedding anniversary August 17, and I'm glad to report that they are happier than ever and will take a two months' vacation in Canada with their children.

Roberta Linn tests at Warners for "The Helen Morgan Story."

At Zardi's Jazzland, Arlene Dahl and Fernando Lamas were having a ball—just the two of them.

After Nat "King" Cole's first show at the Sands in Las Vegas, Jack Entratter tore up the King's contract, although it had a year to run and made him a new deal with more money.

Zsa Zsa Gabor, who did just as everyone expected and said her engagement to Hal Hayes was kaput, had herself a time in Paris with a relative of Aly Khan.

Some of that big alimony Lili Damita received from Errol Flynn has gone into a citrus grove in Florida.

It's a draw between Arthur O'Connell and Vittorio De Sica as to which admirer escorts Marlene Dietrich in Monte Carlo.

The movie fight John Agar had with Touch Connors in a scene for "The Flesh and the Spur" resulted in a sprained ankle for John.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 3 (INS)—Kim Novak's reward for bringing the crowds in to see "The Eddy Duchin Story" is the colorful role of Jeanne Eagles in the life story of one of the all-time great actresses. Kim will make the Jeanne Eagles story next, and Daniel Fuchs already is at work on the script.

If you ever saw the delicate, beautiful Jeanne in "Rain," you know what special charm and talent this frail girl possessed. Many years ago when I was on the Morning Telegraph, one of the most famous columnists in the country was Rennold Wolf, who was desperately in love with Jeanne, about whom he wrote so much. He was very much broken up when they parted after a quarrel at a New Year's Eve party.

Harry Cohn, who has been picking them pretty well these last few years, believes that a newcomer named James Darren is headed for big things.

Young Darren, 20 years old, was brought to Columbia by David Selznick's niece Joyce Selznick, who also discovered Tony Curtis. Darren has many of the qualities of Tony, and if he does as well as the Curtis lad he will, indeed, carve out a career for himself.

June Allyson writes from Munich that Dick Powell is so enchanted with Germany that he can't keep film in his camera, he's shooting so much of the scenic splendor.

June also adds that her very pretty secretary and good friend, Barbara Salisbury, has her first movie role in "Interlude."

"Barbara has always wanted to be an actress," says June. "Ricky and Pamela, our two children, are in a sequence with other children learning to sing."

One of the most important purchases of last week was made by Charles Vidor, who bought "Honey From a Dark Hive" by Bernice Kavinsky. He'll make this after he finishes "The Joker Is Wild."

The book, which is just now coming out, is an Abie's Irish Rose idea, with a young Jewish boy falling in love with a Catholic girl and the problems they face with both families.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Twenty-two-year old David Andrews, Dana's son, has received his greetings from Uncle Sam.

The Cameron Mitchells celebrate their 16th wedding anniversary August 17, and I'm glad to report that they are happier than ever and will take a two months' vacation in Canada with their children.

Roberta Linn tests at Warners for "The Helen Morgan Story."

At Zardi's Jazzland, Arlene Dahl and Fernando Lamas were having a ball—just the two of them.

After Nat "King" Cole's first show at the Sands in Las Vegas, Jack Entratter tore up the King's contract, although it had a year to run and made him a new deal with more money.

Zsa Zsa Gabor, who did just as everyone expected and said her engagement to Hal Hayes was kaput, had herself a time in Paris with a relative of Aly Khan.

Some of that big alimony Lili Damita received from Errol Flynn has gone into a citrus grove in Florida.

It's a draw between Arthur O'Connell and Vittorio De Sica as to which admirer escorts Marlene Dietrich in Monte Carlo.

The movie fight John Agar had with Touch Connors in a scene for "The Flesh and the Spur" resulted in a sprained ankle for John.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

New Market Street Bridge Opened With Ceremony

Market Street bridge, the second of three being constructed in connection with the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project, was opened to traffic yesterday.

Mayor Roy W. Eves snipped the white ribbon.

Also participating in the ceremony were other city officials and officers of Queen City Brewing Company which is located adjacent to the bridge site. The brewing company in cooperation with the city had re-routed its delivery traffic during time of construction. Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz was in charge of program arrangements.

The ceremony was simple and without speeches.

The span, which cost $179,963, was constructed by H. D. Case, Inc., of Mt. Airy. Blacktopping of the deck and approaches was completed Monday by Cumberland Contracting Company crews.

Painting and certain electrical work remain to be completed within the next week or 10 days.

Son Of Steel Union President On Strike

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP) — The shutdown in the nation's steel industry has reached into the household of President David J. McDonald of the United Steel Workers.

McDonald said his 17-year-old son, David Jr., had taken a summer job with the Jessup Steel Corp. in Washington, Pa., and walked out with fellow union members at midnight Saturday.

New Closing Time Set For Pool

Beginning Thursday, Constitution Park swimming pool will be open until 11 p. m.

Recreation Director Robert E. Pence said the decision to extend the pool hours came as a result of requests from teen-agers and will give them a congregating place during the remainder of the summer months.

Dancing will be allowed at the pool and in the casino which also will remain open, Pence said. Music will be "piped" from the casino to the pool and refreshments will be on sale at the casino as usual.

The pool is well-lighted, he added. Closing time previously has been 9 p. m.

It has been estimated that the average busy American housewife walks about eight miles a day in the performance of her daily chores.

ENLISTS IN WAC—Miss Helen Darlene Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams, Zihlman, has enlisted in the Women's Army Corps at the local recruiting office. She is a graduate of Beall High School, Class of 1955, and is taking basic training at Fort McClelland, Ala.

Celanese Honors Trio For Service

Emma M. Largent, 923 Maryland Avenue; Dorothy L. Ringler, Narrows Park; and Lawrence C. Leidinger, 28 Somerville Avenue, were presented watches on their 25 anniversaries with the Celanese Corporation. R. Finley Thompson, Amcelle plant manager, made the presentation to Leidinger and Walter N. Hedrick, assistant to the plant manager, awarded the other two.

Mrs. Largent is an operator in the coning department of textile. Her husband is also an Amcelle employe.

Mrs. Ringler is a yarn tester in the physical analysis laboratory—a division of quality control. Her husband has been a Celanese employe for over 30 years. She is worthy matron of McKinley Chapter Order of the Eastern Star, a member of the LaVale Methodist Church, LaVale Homemakers, the Allegany Historical Society, and the Business and Professional Womens Club.

Leidinger is an electric truck operator in the service department of textile. He is married and the father of a son and daughter.

Lawrence I. Horner, superintendent of quality control, presented Mrs. Ringler a five-star emblem.

Post Office Innovation

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Postmaster General Summerfield said today that by Sept. 1, each of the 37,863 post offices in the country will be supplied with ball-point pens for public use.

Cottingham New Railway Supervisor

William O. Cottingham Sr., supervisor of locomotive performance on the Western Maryland Railway for seven years, has been promoted to supervisor of operating practices on the railroad.

Cottingham assumed the duties of his new position Sunday, according to an announcement by G. M. Leilich, vice president of operations. The newly created post will encompass the duties of superintendent of safety, the position left vacant by the retirement of John R. Tenney this past week, along with supervision of rules and regulations for train operation throughout the Western Maryland Railway system.

A native of Baltimore, Cottingham started to work for the Western Maryland in November of 1918, when he took a job in the shops at Port Covington. Four years later he began his service "on the road," working as a fireman for a number of years and later as an engineer. In 1942 he was appointed traveling fireman, later in the same year being promoted to assistant road foreman of engines. In 1949 he was appointed supervisor of locomotive performance, the post he held until being appointed supervisor of operating practices last week.

In his new job, Cottingham will work directly under G. M. Leilich, vice president of the company. His new office will be located at the Western Maryland Railway passenger station in Hagerstown.

Both Lakes Full

Lake Gordon is level with the crest of the spillway and Lake Koon a half-inch above the crest, C. L. Brotemarkle, assistant superintendent of Evitts Creek Water Company, reported to the Mayor and Council Monday. Consumption for the week was 80,120,000 gallons compared to 88,300,000 the same period a year ago.

County Seeks Locust Grove Span Bids

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday voted by a 2-1 margin to advertise for the fabrication and laying of a steel deck on the Locust Grove Bridge in the Narrows.

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson voted "no" to the motion, saying that he believed a qualified engineer would save the county money.

Wilkinson noted that the County Commissioners have purchased the material for the bridge repairs.

A good engineer, he declared, would save his salary each year, referring to instances such as these.

Wilkinson added that he believes the cost of laying the bridge deck will be as much as the cost of the material.

There are 59 employes in the County Roads Department, he added, and through the guidance of an engineer the repair work could be done by these men.

Wilkinson's remarks were made following the discussion of the motion to advertise for the work in the board meeting.

As passed, the notice to contractors calls for sealed bids to be received by the County Commissioners at the Court House until Friday, July 20, at 10:30 a.m.

Specifications for the project are available at the office of J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, in the County Building, Union Street.

Bids must be submitted with a certified check for $500 payable to the County Commissioners.

The successful contractor must have workmen's compensation and public liability insurance and must comply with all federal, state and local regulations. Labor rates must be figured at prevailing hourly wage rates in the vicinity at the date of the contract.

Commissioner Wilkinson also made his regular objection to the auto mileage expense account of Chapman. Wilkinson again claimed this was not necessary, charging it was for Chapman's personal auto.

New Market Street Bridge Opened With Ceremony

Market Street bridge, the second of three being constructed in connection with the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project, was opened to traffic yesterday.

Mayor Roy W. Eves snipped the white ribbon.

Also participating in the ceremony were other city officials and officers of Queen City Brewing Company which is located adjacent to the bridge site. The brewing company in cooperation with the city had re-routed its delivery traffic during time of construction. Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz was in charge of program arrangements.

The ceremony was simple and without speeches.

The span, which cost $179,963, was constructed by H. D. Case, Inc., of Mt. Airy. Blacktopping of the deck and approaches was completed Monday by Cumberland Contracting Company crews.

Painting and certain electrical work remain to be completed within the next week or 10 days.

Son Of Steel Union President On Strike

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP) — The shutdown in the nation's steel industry has reached into the household of President David J. McDonald of the United Steel Workers.

McDonald said his 17-year-old son, David Jr., had taken a summer job with the Jessup Steel Corp. in Washington, Pa., and walked out with fellow union members at midnight Saturday.

New Closing Time Set For Pool

Beginning Thursday, Constitution Park swimming pool will be open until 11 p. m.

Recreation Director Robert E. Pence said the decision to extend the pool hours came as a result of requests from teen-agers and will give them a congregating place during the remainder of the summer months.

Dancing will be allowed at the pool and in the casino which also will remain open, Pence said. Music will be "piped" from the casino to the pool and refreshments will be on sale at the casino as usual.

The pool is well-lighted, he added. Closing time previously has been 9 p. m.

Celanese Honors Trio For Service

Emma M. Largent, 923 Maryland Avenue; Dorothy L. Ringler, Narrows Park; and Lawrence C. Leidinger, 28 Somerville Avenue, were presented watches on their 25 anniversaries with the Celanese Corporation. R. Finley Thompson, Amcelle plant manager, made the presentation to Leidinger and Walter N. Hedrick, assistant to the plant manager, awarded the other two.

Mrs. Largent is an operator in the coning department of textile. Her husband is also an Amcelle employe.

Mrs. Ringler is a yarn tester in the physical analysis laboratory—a division of quality control. Her husband has been a Celanese employe for over 30 years. She is worthy matron of McKinley Chapter Order of the Eastern Star, a member of the LaVale Methodist Church, LaVale Homemakers, the Allegany Historical Society, and the Business and Professional Womens Club.

Leidinger is an electric truck operator in the service department of textile. He is married and the father of a son and daughter.

Lawrence I. Horner, superintendent of quality control, presented Mrs. Ringler a five-star emblem.

Cottingham New Railway Supervisor

William O. Cottingham Sr., supervisor of locomotive performance on the Western Maryland Railway for seven years, has been promoted to supervisor of operating practices on the railroad.

Cottingham assumed the duties of his new position Sunday, according to an announcement by G. M. Leilich, vice president of operations. The newly created post will encompass the duties of superintendent of safety, the position left vacant by the retirement of John R. Tenney this past week, along with supervision of rules and regulations for train operation throughout the Western Maryland Railway system.

A native of Baltimore, Cottingham started to work for the Western Maryland in November of 1918, when he took a job in the shops at Port Covington. Four years later he began his service "on the road," working as a fireman for a number of years and later as an engineer. In 1942 he was appointed traveling fireman, later in the same year being promoted to assistant road foreman of engines. In 1949 he was appointed supervisor of locomotive performance, the post he held until being appointed supervisor of operating practices last week.

In his new job, Cottingham will work directly under G. M. Leilich, vice president of the company. His new office will be located at the Western Maryland Railway passenger station in Hagerstown.

Both Lakes Full

Lake Gordon is level with the crest of the spillway and Lake Koon a half-inch above the crest, C. L. Brotemarkle, assistant superintendent of Evitts Creek Water Company, reported to the Mayor and Council Monday. Consumption for the week was 80,120,000 gallons compared to 88,300,000 the same period a year ago.

County Seeks Locust Grove Span Bids

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday voted by a 2-1 margin to advertise for the fabrication and laying of a steel deck on the Locust Grove Bridge in the Narrows.

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson voted "no" to the motion, saying that he believed a qualified engineer would save the county money.

Wilkinson noted that the County Commissioners have purchased the material for the bridge repairs.

A good engineer, he declared, would save his salary each year, referring to instances such as these.

Wilkinson added that he believes the cost of laying the bridge deck will be as much as the cost of the material.

There are 59 employes in the County Roads Department, he added, and through the guidance of an engineer the repair work could be done by these men.

Wilkinson's remarks were made following the discussion of the motion to advertise for the work in the board meeting.

As passed, the notice to contractors calls for sealed bids to be received by the County Commissioners at the Court House until Friday, July 20, at 10:30 a.m.

Specifications for the project are available at the office of J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, in the County Building, Union Street.

Bids must be submitted with a certified check for $500 payable to the County Commissioners.

The successful contractor must have workmen's compensation and public liability insurance and must comply with all federal, state and local regulations. Labor rates must be figured at prevailing hourly wage rates in the vicinity at the date of the contract.

Commissioner Wilkinson also made his regular objection to the auto mileage expense account of Chapman. Wilkinson again claimed this was not necessary, charging it was for Chapman's personal auto.

Flat Rock Span Is Scheduled To Be Opened

The Flat Rock Bridge will be opened for public use after being closed for ten years.

This was announced by William H. Lemmert, president of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, yesterday at the meeting of the commissioners.

On Sunday, the county took over from the State Roads Commission 13.32 miles of state-maintained roads, including the bridge.

Included in the various stretches was the Flat Rock Bridge which is on State Route 731 south of Barton, extending 1.35 miles.

The State Roads Commission on November 10 agreed to do certain work before the roads and bridges would be turned over to the county but Lemmert said that some of this could not be done in that short time due to the press of other state roads work.

The 13.32 miles will be included in the county roads system and will give the county more revenue from the state gas tax money. This tax is allocated to the counties on the basis of the amount of miles in their roads systems.

The roads to be taken over are as follows:

Route 135 A from 135 near McCoole to U. S. Route 220, .43 mile.

Study Seeks Ways To Improve Ministers' Training

By HERMAN R. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP) — What does it take to make a good minister?

Of course he must have a genuine calling, or vocation, to enter the ministry.

But is this always enough? Officials of the National Council of Churches are not sure that it is. Psychological and personality traits, they believe, frequently unfit a completely sincere young man for the human relations necessary in pastoral work.

Two years ago the council called 25 church leaders and psychologists to meet at the offices of the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N.J., to talk over how tests might be devised that would indicate the future effectiveness of a seminary applicant. The service already had researched such tests for the legal and engineering professions.

After further conferences, council and service officials worked out an approach to a three-year research project. Now the Lilly Endowment of Indianapolis has made an $85,000 grant to finance it.

The testing service is to do the work under direction of an advisory committee of church officials, representatives of participating seminaries and experts in research techniques. Committee chairman is Dr. M. C. Froyd, director of research at Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, a Baptist institution.

Some seminaries have used psychological tests for 25 years in screening applicants and weeding out the unfit as they progress through their course.

But the Rev. Elmer G. Million, director of the council's Department of the Ministry, says the new study will be the first widespread effort to find methods of improving the selection and training of tomorrow's ministers.

Officials of two seminaries, asked to assess the value of such a program, said it could be considerable.

"Very little has been done in this field," said President Norman L. Trott of Westminister (Md.) Theological Seminary, a Methodist school. "It is a good area in which to work. The seminaries are training men for a specific job, and they want to be as specific as possible in choosing them."

Dr. A. T. Mollegen of the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary in Alexandria, Va., said he believed the work "could be very useful."

Westminster now uses tests to weed out the emotionally unfit.

In the past six years, Dr. Trott said, these tests have turned up one man who was actually insane. Others were referred to a staff psychologist, and 17 were ultimately dropped.

Dr. Mollegen explained that the Episcopal Church has a national requirement that candidates for admission to its seminaries undergo a psychiatric test and other stiff interviews, including a final one with the bishop of the diocese in which the seminary is located. Most unfit men, he said, are blocked at this level.

Poznan Revolt Bolsters West's Cold War Hand

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 3 (AP)—The West's hand in dealing with Russia has been strengthened by the bloody Poznan revolt —just at a time when it was needed most.

For months, neutralist voices have been heard in Western Europe clamoring for closer negotiations with the Russians. Millions have been wondering whether the Kremlin's smiles were not sincere, although Western leaders have doubted it.

In particular, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has been under pressure to waver from his rigid anti-Russian policies and his former cold war popularity has been gravely jeopardized.

But the heroic three-day Poznan insurrection—and its ruthless suppression by tanks and troops of the Russian-run Polish army—has stirred sympathy throughout the West. That sympathy has been heard not only from the masses of Westerners, but even from Communists like Giuseppe di Vittorio, head of the big Italian labor federation.

The reported shooting of marching children, the defection of Polish soldiers to the workers—these are bound to raise doubts that things have really changed behind the Iron Curtain.

Annapolis Man Captures Award For Navigation

ANNAPOLIS, July 3 (AP) —Philip Van Horn Weems, retired Navy captain who lives here, has received the Col. Thomas J. Thurlow navigation award for the outstanding contribution to the science of navigation during 1955.

The award was made last weekend at the annual banquet of the Institute of Navigation at Santa Monica, Calif.

It cited a long and varied list of Capt. Weems' contributions to navigation including the Weems Plotter, ground speed and drift indicators, a second-setting navigational watch, and several textbooks on navigation.

"For more than a quarter of a century the name of Capt. Weems has been held in respect whereever navigation has been practiced or discussed, but never has he been held in higher esteem than at present," the citation said.

Study Seeks Ways To Improve Ministers' Training

By HERMAN R. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP) — What does it take to make a good minister?

Of course he must have a genuine calling, or vocation, to enter the ministry.

But is this always enough? Officials of the National Council of Churches are not sure that it is. Psychological and personality traits, they believe, frequently unfit a completely sincere young man for the human relations necessary in pastoral work.

Two years ago the council called 25 church leaders and psychologists to meet at the offices of the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N.J., to talk over how tests might be devised that would indicate the future effectiveness of a seminary applicant. The service already had researched such tests for the legal and engineering professions.

After further conferences, council and service officials worked out an approach to a three-year research project. Now the Lilly Endowment of Indianapolis has made an $85,000 grant to finance it.

The testing service is to do the work under direction of an advisory committee of church officials, representatives of participating seminaries and experts in research techniques. Committee chairman is Dr. M. C. Froyd, director of research at Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, a Baptist institution.

Some seminaries have used psychological tests for 25 years in screening applicants and weeding out the unfit as they progress through their course.

But the Rev. Elmer G. Million, director of the council's Department of the Ministry, says the new study will be the first widespread effort to find methods of improving the selection and training of tomorrow's ministers.

Officials of two seminaries, asked to assess the value of such a program, said it could be considerable.

"Very little has been done in this field," said President Norman L. Trott of Westminister (Md.) Theological Seminary, a Methodist school. "It is a good area in which to work. The seminaries are training men for a specific job, and they want to be as specific as possible in choosing them."

Dr. A. T. Mollegen of the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary in Alexandria, Va., said he believed the work "could be very useful."

Westminster now uses tests to weed out the emotionally unfit.

In the past six years, Dr. Trott said, these tests have turned up one man who was actually insane. Others were referred to a staff psychologist, and 17 were ultimately dropped.

Dr. Mollegen explained that the Episcopal Church has a national requirement that candidates for admission to its seminaries undergo a psychiatric test and other stiff interviews, including a final one with the bishop of the diocese in which the seminary is located. Most unfit men, he said, are blocked at this level.

Something's Missing From Fourth Of July

The Republic of the United States of America is 180 years old. Commonly referred to as the Fourth of July, the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, which marked the birth of the nation, is again being observed. It has been observed throughout the years as a holiday, but in recent times by activities far removed from the patriotic manner of former generations. Origin of the day seems all but forgotten.

Before the automobile came to eliminate distance as a factor in human existence, celebration of the Fourth of July was entirely a local event. Usually there was a picnic in some park or grove. The anvil salute at sunrise aroused the community. In the morning there was a program on an improvised platform. The town's best voice—or sometimes only the loudest—usually that of a lawyer or minister, was called upon to read the Declaration of Independence. A young woman, dressed in white and with a red, white and blue sash, recited "Paul Revere's Ride," or something of a similar patriotic character.

Quite frequently there was fife-and-drum music, often a flag drill by young girls. A picnic dinner was followed by sports and races in the afternoon. Free ice water was an added attraction. Fireworks closed the celebration, and everybody went home, tired but usually in one piece. The nation lost something when the Fourth of July became a day of seeking far places, instead of an observance of the most important anniversary in the nation's history.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

July Fourth, 1956

This year we celebrate the 180th anniversary of the birth of our nation. We are not aged, as nations go; for instance, it is now 600 years since the Dukes of Moscovy freed themselves from their Mongolian overlords. It is 890 years since William the Conqueror took possession of England. If our history is to be viewed in full perspective, we must go back not to the Declaration of Independence but to the founding of the first colonies. There the basis was laid for what came to be not only the Declaration of Independence but the Constitution of the United States.

We have not aged, but we have upon this soil achieved singular advantages which should be sacredly guarded by the American people.

Perhaps the greatest of these is individual freedom, the right to speak, to write, to think, to worship God, to choose a vocation, to move from place to place, to own property—each person according to his choice and at his own risk. It is this particular characteristic of American life which is least understood abroad and appreciated at home. Yet it is because we possess these rights that the United States has been able to establish an economy which is not only the richest among nations but which produces for its own people the greatest material benefits.

Other areas on the Earth's surface were undeveloped as the United States was undeveloped in the 18th and 19th Centuries. But no other area attracted so many millions of immigrants who came here from all continents and all nations and who produced here a new race of man, different from his forebears not only in his habits but in appearance. It was undoubtedly freedom for the individual which made the United States so attractive to pioneers and to sturdy spirits who did not find here the comforts which we now speak of as our way of life, but who did find here unparalleled opportunities to do what they wished to do with their own lives.

Since the 1930s, it has become customary for a small number of extraordinarily vocal Americans to downgrade their own country. This disease was a product of the disappointments of the Depression. In all societies, there are good times and bad, but rarely have bad times made so deep an impression upon a people as the Depression did upon young America. Young men and women in the 1930s spoke and acted as though the bottom had dropped out of their hopes. In the 1950s, they know that life goes on and that good times do follow bad. At any rate, there is less desire in the 1950s to establish a paradise on Earth here with someone like William Z. Foster in charge.

The permanent effect of bad times was to lessen the interest in the country, its history and traditions. Statesmen often become reckless in their relations to the Constitution. Administrative officials often act like Czarist nachalniki and the public does not anger at their impudence. But even that will change, as a knowledge of history, tradition and institutions is restored to the newer generations who are coming upon the scene. They will be closer to the American ideal than their fathers who made a fetich of security when the essence of the American ideal is liberty.

Old-timers will say that the Fourth of July has changed. Certainly the Fourth of July picnic with the reading of the Declaration of Independence and the long oration delivered by a celebrity, and the fireworks and the pink lemonade will never be forgotten by anyone who experienced it. But today, it is possible to take the car and travel a hundred miles or more from home for a picnic, and the orations come over the air on radio, but the Declaration of Independence is not read and it is not memorized as it used to be. That is an unfortunate omission, for what is deeply stored in the memory affects the conduct of man, like an admonition from a loving mother.

But we shall return to that, too. Children in the schools are getting much more American history now than they did 20 years ago and the day will come, and it is not distant, when patriotism will again be respected as a virtue. Of all nations on Earth today, only in the United States is nationalism unfashionable.

Vets Educated In Schools Connected With Reds

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The United States Government used more than $3,000,000 of taxpayers' money from 1946 to 1952 to pay for the education of war veterans in four schools owned wholly or in part by members of the Communist party.

This conclusion was reached by the Senate's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, of which Senator McClellan of Arkansas is chairman.

Clumsy administration in the Veterans' Bureau in those years and, to some extent, lack of alertness on the part of state agencies which had approved the schools were responsible for the situation.

Present Laws Inadequate

More than $2,000,000 in federal funds were expended to a private high school in New York City that had in it many pro-Communist teachers, but the bulk of the veterans were trained at the school even after the Veterans' Administration was aware that it was Communist-dominated.

The Senate committee has called for new legislation by Congress to prevent any further federal support of Communist-owned schools. It is apparent that some of the existing laws are inadequate to take care of the situation.

Most significant in the subcommittee's report—which, incidentally, is unanimous—is the statement made concerning the importance of confidential informants. The subcommittee does not reveal just what handicaps the investigating agencies of the government may have been under in connection with the ascertainment of the facts concerning the influence of the Communists in the schools, but the subcommittee says:

"These hearings have served to re-emphasize to this subcommittee the important contributions that may be made by confidential informants to the exposure of the Communist conspiracy before the courts and congressional committees. To this end they have made extreme sacrifices of which the American public generally is unaware.

"It is to be expected that Communists and Communist sympathizers will launch smear campaigns against these former party members who have a unique knowledge of the real purposes of the Communist Party, U.S.A. However, the subcommittee is particularly disturbed by a recent increase in similar unjustified attacks from misguided quarters avowedly anti-Communist. By such activities they are either unwittingly or deliberately promoting Communist causes.

Exposure Difficult

"The result of such attacks has confidential informants within the party in order to keep abreast of its activities and at appropriate been an increasing reluctance on the part of former members of the Communist party or undercover agents to testify in courts or before congressional committees. This government is thus deprived of its best source of facts concerning an organization dedicated to its overthrow by unconstitutional means.

"It is of interest that those groups attacking informants are not heard from when informants on non-Communist matters are involved.

"The very nature of the Communist conspiracy has always rendered its exposure exceedingly difficult. Now that the party has gone underground, that difficulty has greatly increased necessitating an even greater dependence on times to publicly expose its real objectives.

"Reckless and unjustified attacks against all confidential informants and their use by our government are strongly condemned by this subcommittee. They accomplish nothing except the rendering of assistance to the Communist party.

"This subcommittee is firmly opposed to the expenditure of federal funds for institutions owned or controlled by Communists."

Maybe the justices of the Supreme Court who inveighed against "confidential informants" in one of their decisions recently will read what the Senate subcommittee has just said on the subject.

The subcommittee, incidentally, points out that, under existing laws, the Veterans Administration "did not have and does not have legal authority to discontinue payment of federal funds to schools reliably reported as Communist owned." But the senators point out nevertheless that the Veterans Administration "was on notice as early as 1946 of the deficiencies in this area" of public law.

Inaction Condemned

The criticism of the Veterans Administration is phrased this way:

"For a period of over nine years, the Veterans Administration failed to recommend corrective legislation or at least apprise Congress of the deficiencies of these laws. Such inaction is strongly condemned by this subcommittee. It resulted in an inexcusable expenditure of federal funds in support of Communist-owned schools."

It is interesting to note that the new bill to correct the situation is sponsored by the full membership of the subcommittee, which means Democrats as well as Republicans.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

On the most glorious day in American history here are some things to remember.

If you can wangle a holiday invite to somebody's hashienda you can exercise squatter's sovereignty until next Monday.

When Ben Franklin said we must stick together or dance the mamba he was right. The baseball team that is in the lead on the Fourth usually wins the pennant.

When the old bellringer did the colonial rope trick with the Liberty Bell some folks thought it was a one-alarm fire. Hasn't been put out yet.

The heat was just as tough on George Washington as the rest of us. He wasn't to enjoy those cool nights at Valley Forge until some time later.

Naming the 13 original states is patriotic but not essential. Try to think of something original when a traffic cop nails you in the other 35.

Helpful Hints On How To Avoid The Holiday Blues

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

July 4 ushers in the vacation season for most of us. This year the holiday comes in the middle of the week. This may mean less fun but fewer accidents provided everyone does not decide to make a hurried trip to his favorite beach, resort, or forest preserve.

A safe and sane Fourth reduces the physician's work load and the medical profession hopes we never will return to the old days. Many middle-aged adults trace their blindness, deafness, or ugly scars to mishaps suffered years ago when firecracker sales were not banned.

If Independence Day is hot we can expect heat reactions and sunburn. This is not unusual during early summer because it takes time for the body to adjust to heat and for the skin to develop pigment. Anyone with heart trouble, high blood pressure, or a disturbance in circulation should be reasonable about exposing himself to the direct rays of Old Sol.

Men and women who feel light headed or faint should seek the shade or go into a cool room. With each Fourth of July we are a year older and those who attend picnics and play baseball should remember this and act accordingly. Summer is a wonderful time of the year and should not be spoiled with a broken leg or sprained ankle.

Insects will celebrate their independence today also. Mosquitoes are always hungry and flies will walk on anything from potato salad to you-know-what. Ticks and chiggers are waiting for someone to sit with in the grass; and bees, wasps, and hornets will become angry if disturbed.

At any rate, it is advisable to take an antihistaminic cream along to relieve itching and eliminate the sting of insect bites. Handling ticks requires skill. They should be pulled out with tweezers or given a chance to back out under their own power by touching the end that protrudes from the skin with a lighted cigaret. Covering the area with alcohol or gasoline will have the same effect.

Every year, Independence Day brings out a new crop of three million youngsters who have never roamed the woods and have not heard of the pitfalls associated with poison ivy. Take a bar of yellow laundry soap along to wash the arms and legs, if the tykes are allowed to hike where the weed abounds. Ordinary solvents such as benzene or gasoline also dissolve the poisonous sap and should be used when exposure is known to have occurred.

BRONCHOGENIC CANCER

E. T. writes: Are bronchial cancer and lung cancer the same?

REPLY

Not in the strict sense but most of the lung cancers described in newspapers and magazines are bronchogenic in origin, which means they originate in the walls of the bronchi.

HE LIKES SPINACH

S. D. writes: I eat spinach twice a day because I like it. Do you think I'm getting too much oxalic acid?

REPLY

No, but you may have to switch to another vegetable should you develop oxalic acid kidney stones.

DIET AFTER CORONARY

Mrs. E. writes: If an underweight person has a heart attack is he supposed to go on a diet and lose more weight?

REPLY

No. The question of weight presents no problem to him. If you refer to the low fat-low cholesterol diet used in treating arteriosclerosis of the coronary arteries, more carbohydrates and proteins may be added to the menus. With an adequate intake of calories, weight loss should not occur.

RESPONSE TO TICKLING

R. W. writes: When I tickle my soles myself nothing happens but when someone else does it I get goose pimples. Can you explain it?

REPLY

Goose flesh follows a number of physiological and psychological stimuli. It is somewhat akin to the tickle reflex, which is more easily provoked by someone else.

MT. EVEREST PRESSURE

T. V. writes: What is the highest blood pressure ever recorded by medical science?

REPLY

The ordinary blood pressure machine usually goes as high as 300 mm. Hg. I have seen several persons with levels beyond this high water mark and a special apparatus would be needed to determine the exact pressure. I presume a record figure is tucked away somewhere in the medical literature.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

According to oldsters in Amherst, Mass., Edward Dickinson, father of the famous poetess, Emily, once brought half the town's population on the double to the town square by ringing the big fire bell. "Where's the fire?" cried everybody.

Mr. Dickinson pointed silently to a magnificent sunset in the western sky. He just wanted everybody he knew to share his appreciation of the effect.

An optimist, cited by David Green, is the general in Caesar's army who, when forced to flee before Vandal hordes, sent this report to headquarters: "According to preconceived plan, we have proceeded to a point of vantage which lay 80 miles behind us." . . . Sounds somewhat modern at that!

"Beg pardon," said the man at the door, "but would you care to contribute something to the Home for Hopeless Alcoholics?"

"You bet," replied the homemaker promptly. "Come back about midnight and you can have my husband."

Techniques Of War Changed Greatly Since Battles At Concord, Lexington

By Drew Pearson

CONCORD, Mass. — Ducks waddle lazily on the bank of the Concord River. They are in the shadow of the bridge "where once embattled farmers stood and fired the shot heard round the world," but they don't seem concerned about it. . . . Tourists, more concerned, snap pictures. They point cameras up the rolling hill from which 500 farmers armed with pitchforks and squirrel rifles came down to the bridge to turn back British Red Coats. . . . A lady from Iowa tells her 7-year-old that it was here that the Independence movement began in April 1776, how it swept down to Philadelphia, how Thomas Jefferson drafted the Declaration of Independence in July, how a little group of patriots signed it on July 4, how, understandably, they didn't have the courage to proclaim it or ring the Liberty Bell until four days later. . . . Across the field from the bridge a guide takes a group through the old manse, home of Nathaniel Hawthorne and the family of Ralph Waldo Emerson. Around it once revolved a cult of strong thinkers, individualistic thinkers — Henry D. Thoreau, Amos Bronson Alcott, the "Concord Summer School of Philosophy and Literature." . . . Joe McCarthy would have called it a Communist cell, and the Minute Women of Texas and California today would have been shocked at the revolutionary ideas of the Minute Men who defended the bridge at Concord. . . . Even Thomas Jefferson, who (after the Revolution) wrote "the tree of liberty must be watered by a little blood" might have been jailed today for proposing overthrow of government by force.

Paul Revere Got Caught

Children play in the late afternoon on the green at Lexington. Its a beautiful green—greener, neater no doubt than when Captain Parker ordered his Minute Men: "Stand your ground, don't fire unless fired upon, but if they mean to have war let it begin here". . . . Around that green, the suburbs of Boston, reaching out for more elbow-room, more air, more freedom from gasoline fumes, has taken over. . . . Paul Revere, if he made the brief ride from Boston today, would have got tied up in traffic jams. His horses hooves might not have survived the punishment of concrete pavements. . . . . Actually Revere never did get to Concord. He stopped first at Lexington where he had the dickens of a time waking up Samuel Adams and John Hancock, famous later as the first man to sign the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia. They wanted to sleep. . . . And when Revere headed for Concord, the British caught him. They also caught Rufus Dawes, ancestor of Coolidge's vice president, Charley Dawes. The only man who sneaked through was Sam Prescott, who had a late date with a girl in Lexington and managed to ride the backroads seven miles to Concord to warn that the British were coming.

Riding over the smooth, crowded highways outside Boston today you can't help comparing the type of war fought then and war fought today. Captain Parker lost 11 men at Lexington. It was a great historical battle, the beginning of a war. But only 11 men were killed . . . . Today if war came to the suburbs of Boston, one hydrogen bomb would wipe out, maim or contaminate 1,500,000. For days afterward no one could live in the vicinity. . . . Not 11 men, but 1,500,000. . . . That's what war means today. "Several hundred million people," including many American allies in Europe would be killed, testified Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, if hydrogen war broke out between the United States and Russia . . . . "This is a dangerous understatement," countered Lauriston Taylor and Roger Lapp, two of our foremost atomic physicists. Such an attack would affect not merely several hundred million, it would be catastrophic to the entire Northern Hemisphere, they said . . . . "Such widespread contamination with its effect on human genetics would be so great," said Dr. Taylor, "that I don't believe the human race could survive.". . . "The whole world would suffer unto death," said Dr. Lapp. . . . That's how far we have come in the 178 years since the battles of Concord and Lexington.

That also may be why the world may be reaching a military stalemate in which even the rulers of the Kremlin pause in the face of the fearful awesomeness of atomic war.

Air Tragedy

When Congress investigates the tragic air collision over the deserts of Arizona it should also investigate sagging morale in the Civil Aeronautics Administration — the agency responsible for the safety of the airways.

The TWA-United Air Lines collision was the first in history between two scheduled air lines. But insiders who have watched the way morale has dropped inside the CAA aren't surprised. Some 16,000 employes have been seething with discontent, ever since politics became more important in the CAA than air efficiency; and ever since the CAA has been run by the Department of Commerce.

Beginning July 1, one day after the accident, the CAA has been divided into two parts: 1, airways engineering, 2, air traffic control. But the order was issued long before and discontent over the reorganization had been going on for six months.

More important, the Commerce Department for six months delayed the so-called "five-year plan" for the airways which included a radar network by which every plane in the air would be under observation from ground control stations. This would have permitted CAA traffic directors to have watched the two giant planes as they flew out of Los Angeles. It might have prevented the tragic crash.

ALLENHURST, N. J. (INS) — There comes a time in every parent's life when the little punk who looks regretably like him says, "O.K., Pop, I'll race you across the pool."

The old bull at whom the challenge is flung suddenly and forlornly knows that he is washed up, or washed up again. The cunning child (the parent once thought cunning meant cute) bides his time until there is enough lard encircling his elder to slow him down as 130 pounds stops Nashua. Then the child strikes. It is not one of the sire's greater moments, let us say. He knows that from this instant onward until he meets his questioning Maker he must assume the status of non-playing captain in his cave, must make up for lost face and shattered prestige by blowing off reminiscent and ever more fictional vapor not unlike that of a Hollywood white whale.

No Court Of Last Resort

There is no court of last resort when a wanting parent is challenged by his offshoot to a physical test. No use mentioning with a racking cough and wan smile that father had a trying night at the lodge, entertaining key figures in the business, political, and fraternal fields ". . . to pay for all those fine things I've given you."

The rosy jawed, clean-limbed little bum of a challenger isn't interested. With a bright and beady stare he knows suddenly he can beat the old man's brains out at a given enterprise. And so he does.

A father loses as many vital decisions of this nature as he has children. Only the sport varies. I know a three-time loser who took his daughter named Debbie and two of her girl friends named Priscilla Meehan and Seton Malone to the heady pleasure domes of Asbury Park the other evening (he had promised to do so when the children were four and they steadfastly reminded him of it with clear-eyed memory until they were eight) and found this bevy of beauties eager to ride on a ghastly contraption that encloses its victims in a cage and twirls them about helplessly like people caught on a Ferris wheel running amok.

"But you just et," this poor soul said to the girls, blanching as he looked aloft at the unnerving sight of caged people screaming through outside loops and Immelmans.

The small girls nonchalantly dropped their hot coins into the turnstile and moved on to their tipsy birdcage. The child Debbie, normally piously proper, looked at her reluctant father and said one searing word:

"Chicken."

This particular series of parental deceits, which now threatens Tommy Farr's consecutive loss record in the U.S., began some years ago when a child named Mike said as we poised at the edge of a pool, "Go ahead, Pop, I'll give you a head start." Pop sank like a rock after negotiating what had theretofore been his racing dive.

Children that followed were properly respectful until they reached that alarming state of mind at which they sensed they could do something better than the increasingly clumsy task master who hovered over them. In the case of one kid, Barry, who became so good at the piano he gave it up at the age of nine, I played for him a little exercise the great Eddy Duchin himself had patiently taught me. When I finished, with barely one clinker but two broken knuckles, the child looked at me quizzically and simply asked, "Are you kidding?" Haven't touched a piano since.

Print Getting Smaller

The boy named Dennis became interested in guns, alarmingly, and so I said, "Son, be careful. You don't know about such things so I'll . . ." "Pop," he said, "the .357 magnum will crack any car's cylinder block and is twice as powerful as a .45 automatic. Did you know that the second number of a gun, such as 45-70, is the charge of the powder, and if there's a third number it means the grain of the bullet? And that I'll never shoot an elephant with less than a .600 magnum, though some people use a 30-0-6 with a special head?"

The print in the new telephone book is getting much smaller, too.

Something's Missing From Fourth Of July

The Republic of the United States of America is 180 years old. Commonly referred to as the Fourth of July, the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, which marked the birth of the nation, is again being observed. It has been observed throughout the years as a holiday, but in recent times by activities far removed from the patriotic manner of former generations. Origin of the day seems all but forgotten.

Before the automobile came to eliminate distance as a factor in human existence, celebration of the Fourth of July was entirely a local event. Usually there was a picnic in some park or grove. The anvil salute at sunrise aroused the community. In the morning there was a program on an improvised platform. The town's best voice—or sometimes only the loudest—usually that of a lawyer or minister, was called upon to read the Declaration of Independence. A young woman, dressed in white and with a red, white and blue sash, recited "Paul Revere's Ride," or something of a similar patriotic character.

Quite frequently there was fife-and-drum music, often a flag drill by young girls. A picnic dinner was followed by sports and races in the afternoon. Free ice water was an added attraction. Fireworks closed the celebration, and everybody went home, tired but usually in one piece. The nation lost something when the Fourth of July became a day of seeking far places, instead of an observance of the most important anniversary in the nation's history.

These Days

July Fourth, 1956

This year we celebrate the 180th anniversary of the birth of our nation. We are not aged, as nations go; for instance, it is now 600 years since the Dukes of Moscovy freed themselves from their Mongolian overlords. It is 890 years since William the Conqueror took possession of England. If our history is to be viewed in full perspective, we must go back not to the Declaration of Independence but to the founding of the first colonies. There the basis was laid for what came to be not only the Declaration of Independence but the Constitution of the United States.

We have not aged, but we have upon this soil achieved singular advantages which should be sacredly guarded by the American people.

Perhaps the greatest of these is individual freedom, the right to speak, to write, to think, to worship God, to choose a vocation, to move from place to place, to own property—each person according to his choice and at his own risk. It is this particular characteristic of American life which is least understood abroad and appreciated at home. Yet it is because we possess these rights that the United States has been able to establish an economy which is not only the richest among nations but which produces for its own people the greatest material benefits.

Other areas on the Earth's surface were undeveloped as the United States was undeveloped in the 18th and 19th Centuries. But no other area attracted so many millions of immigrants who came here from all continents and all nations and who produced here a new race of man, different from his forebears not only in his habits but in appearance. It was undoubtedly freedom for the individual which made the United States so attractive to pioneers and to sturdy spirits who did not find here the comforts which we now speak of as our way of life, but who did find here unparalleled opportunities to do what they wished to do with their own lives.

Since the 1930s, it has become customary for a small number of extraordinarily vocal Americans to downgrade their own country. This disease was a product of the disappointments of the Depression. In all societies, there are good times and bad, but rarely have bad times made so deep an impression upon a people as the Depression did upon young America. Young men and women in the 1930s spoke and acted as though the bottom had dropped out of their hopes. In the 1950s, they know that life goes on and that good times do follow bad. At any rate, there is less desire in the 1950s to establish a paradise on Earth here with someone like William Z. Foster in charge.

The permanent effect of bad times was to lessen the interest in the country, its history and traditions. Statesmen often become reckless in their relations to the Constitution. Administrative officials often act like Czarist nachalniki and the public does not anger at their impudence. But even that will change, as a knowledge of history, tradition and institutions is restored to the newer generations who are coming upon the scene. They will be closer to the American ideal than their fathers who made a fetich of security when the essence of the American ideal is liberty.

Old-timers will say that the Fourth of July has changed. Certainly the Fourth of July picnic with the reading of the Declaration of Independence and the long oration delivered by a celebrity, and the fireworks and the pink lemonade will never be forgotten by anyone who experienced it. But today, it is possible to take the car and travel a hundred miles or more from home for a picnic, and the orations come over the air on radio, but the Declaration of Independence is not read and it is not memorized as it used to be. That is an unfortunate omission, for what is deeply stored in the memory affects the conduct of man, like an admonition from a loving mother.

But we shall return to that, too. Children in the schools are getting much more American history now than they did 20 years ago and the day will come, and it is not distant, when patriotism will again be respected as a virtue. Of all nations on Earth today, only in the United States is nationalism unfashionable.

Vets Educated In Schools Connected With Reds

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The United States Government used more than $3,000,000 of taxpayers' money from 1946 to 1952 to pay for the education of war veterans in four schools owned wholly or in part by members of the Communist party.

This conclusion was reached by the Senate's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, of which Senator McClellan of Arkansas is chairman.

Clumsy administration in the Veterans' Bureau in those years and, to some extent, lack of alertness on the part of state agencies which had approved the schools were responsible for the situation.

Present Laws Inadequate

More than $2,000,000 in federal funds were expended to a private high school in New York City that had in it many pro-Communist teachers, but the bulk of the veterans were trained at the school even after the Veterans' Administration was aware that it was Communist-dominated.

The Senate committee has called for new legislation by Congress to prevent any further federal support of Communist-owned schools. It is apparent that some of the existing laws are inadequate to take care of the situation.

Most significant in the subcommittee's report—which, incidentally, is unanimous—is the statement made concerning the importance of confidential informants. The subcommittee does not reveal just what handicaps the investigating agencies of the government may have been under in connection with the ascertainment of the facts concerning the influence of the Communists in the schools, but the subcommittee says:

"These hearings have served to re-emphasize to this subcommittee the important contributions that may be made by confidential informants to the exposure of the Communist conspiracy before the courts and congressional committees. To this end they have made extreme sacrifices of which the American public generally is unaware.

"It is to be expected that Communists and Communist sympathizers will launch smear campaigns against these former party members who have a unique knowledge of the real purposes of the Communist Party, U.S.A. However, the subcommittee is particularly disturbed by a recent increase in similar unjustified attacks from misguided quarters avowedly anti-Communist. By such activities they are either unwittingly or deliberately promoting Communist causes.

Exposure Difficult

"The result of such attacks has confidential informants within the party in order to keep abreast of its activities and at appropriate been an increasing reluctance on the part of former members of the Communist party or undercover agents to testify in courts or before congressional committees. This government is thus deprived of its best source of facts concerning an organization dedicated to its overthrow by unconstitutional means.

"It is of interest that those groups attacking informants are not heard from when informants on non-Communist matters are involved.

"The very nature of the Communist conspiracy has always rendered its exposure exceedingly difficult. Now that the party has gone underground, that difficulty has greatly increased necessitating an even greater dependence on times to publicly expose its real objectives.

"Reckless and unjustified attacks against all confidential informants and their use by our government are strongly condemned by this subcommittee. They accomplish nothing except the rendering of assistance to the Communist party.

"This subcommittee is firmly opposed to the expenditure of federal funds for institutions owned or controlled by Communists."

Maybe the justices of the Supreme Court who inveighed against "confidential informants" in one of their decisions recently will read what the Senate subcommittee has just said on the subject.

The subcommittee, incidentally, points out that, under existing laws, the Veterans Administration "did not have and does not have legal authority to discontinue payment of federal funds to schools reliably reported as Communist owned." But the senators point out nevertheless that the Veterans Administration "was on notice as early as 1946 of the deficiencies in this area" of public law.

Inaction Condemned

The criticism of the Veterans Administration is phrased this way:

"For a period of over nine years, the Veterans Administration failed to recommend corrective legislation or at least apprise Congress of the deficiencies of these laws. Such inaction is strongly condemned by this subcommittee. It resulted in an inexcusable expenditure of federal funds in support of Communist-owned schools."

It is interesting to note that the new bill to correct the situation is sponsored by the full membership of the subcommittee, which means Democrats as well as Republicans.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

On the most glorious day in American history here are some things to remember.

If you can wangle a holiday invite to somebody's hashienda you can exercise squatter's sovereignty until next Monday.

When Ben Franklin said we must stick together or dance the mamba he was right. The baseball team that is in the lead on the Fourth usually wins the pennant.

When the old bellringer did the colonial rope trick with the Liberty Bell some folks thought it was a one-alarm fire. Hasn't been put out yet.

The heat was just as tough on George Washington as the rest of us. He wasn't to enjoy those cool nights at Valley Forge until some time later.

Naming the 13 original states is patriotic but not essential. Try to think of something original when a traffic cop nails you in the other 35.

Helpful Hints On How To Avoid The Holiday Blues

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

July 4 ushers in the vacation season for most of us. This year the holiday comes in the middle of the week. This may mean less fun but fewer accidents provided everyone does not decide to make a hurried trip to his favorite beach, resort, or forest preserve.

A safe and sane Fourth reduces the physician's work load and the medical profession hopes we never will return to the old days. Many middle-aged adults trace their blindness, deafness, or ugly scars to mishaps suffered years ago when firecracker sales were not banned.

If Independence Day is hot we can expect heat reactions and sunburn. This is not unusual during early summer because it takes time for the body to adjust to heat and for the skin to develop pigment. Anyone with heart trouble, high blood pressure, or a disturbance in circulation should be reasonable about exposing himself to the direct rays of Old Sol.

Men and women who feel light headed or faint should seek the shade or go into a cool room. With each Fourth of July we are a year older and those who attend picnics and play baseball should remember this and act accordingly. Summer is a wonderful time of the year and should not be spoiled with a broken leg or sprained ankle.

Insects will celebrate their independence today also. Mosquitoes are always hungry and flies will walk on anything from potato salad to you-know-what. Ticks and chiggers are waiting for someone to sit with in the grass; and bees, wasps, and hornets will become angry if disturbed.

At any rate, it is advisable to take an antihistaminic cream along to relieve itching and eliminate the sting of insect bites. Handling ticks requires skill. They should be pulled out with tweezers or given a chance to back out under their own power by touching the end that protrudes from the skin with a lighted cigaret. Covering the area with alcohol or gasoline will have the same effect.

Every year, Independence Day brings out a new crop of three million youngsters who have never roamed the woods and have not heard of the pitfalls associated with poison ivy. Take a bar of yellow laundry soap along to wash the arms and legs, if the tykes are allowed to hike where the weed abounds. Ordinary solvents such as benzene or gasoline also dissolve the poisonous sap and should be used when exposure is known to have occurred.

BRONCHOGENIC CANCER

E. T. writes: Are bronchial cancer and lung cancer the same?

REPLY

Not in the strict sense but most of the lung cancers described in newspapers and magazines are bronchogenic in origin, which means they originate in the walls of the bronchi.

HE LIKES SPINACH

S. D. writes: I eat spinach twice a day because I like it. Do you think I'm getting too much oxalic acid?

REPLY

No, but you may have to switch to another vegetable should you develop oxalic acid kidney stones.

DIET AFTER CORONARY

Mrs. E. writes: If an underweight person has a heart attack is he supposed to go on a diet and lose more weight?

REPLY

No. The question of weight presents no problem to him. If you refer to the low fat-low cholesterol diet used in treating arteriosclerosis of the coronary arteries, more carbohydrates and proteins may be added to the menus. With an adequate intake of calories, weight loss should not occur.

RESPONSE TO TICKLING

R. W. writes: When I tickle my soles myself nothing happens but when someone else does it I get goose pimples. Can you explain it?

REPLY

Goose flesh follows a number of physiological and psychological stimuli. It is somewhat akin to the tickle reflex, which is more easily provoked by someone else.

MT. EVEREST PRESSURE

T. V. writes: What is the highest blood pressure ever recorded by medical science?

REPLY

The ordinary blood pressure machine usually goes as high as 300 mm. Hg. I have seen several persons with levels beyond this high water mark and a special apparatus would be needed to determine the exact pressure. I presume a record figure is tucked away somewhere in the medical literature.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

There is no court of last resort when a wanting parent is challenged by his offshoot to a physical test. No use mentioning with a racking cough and wan smile that father had a trying night at the lodge, entertaining key figures in the business, political, and fraternal fields ". . . to pay for all those fine things I've given you."

The rosy jawed, clean-limbed little bum of a challenger isn't interested. With a bright and beady stare he knows suddenly he can beat the old man's brains out at a given enterprise. And so he does.

A father loses as many vital decisions of this nature as he has children. Only the sport varies. I know a three-time loser who took his daughter named Debbie and two of her girl friends named Priscilla Meehan and Seton Malone to the heady pleasure domes of Asbury Park the other evening (he had promised to do so when the children were four and they steadfastly reminded him of it with clear-eyed memory until they were eight) and found this bevy of beauties eager to ride on a ghastly contraption that encloses its victims in a cage and twirls them about helplessly like people caught on a Ferris wheel running amok.

"But you just et," this poor soul said to the girls, blanching as he looked aloft at the unnerving sight of caged people screaming through outside loops and Immelmans.

The small girls nonchalantly dropped their hot coins into the turnstile and moved on to their tipsy birdcage. The child Debbie, normally piously proper, looked at her reluctant father and said one searing word:

"Chicken."

This particular series of parental deceits, which now threatens Tommy Farr's consecutive loss record in the U.S., began some years ago when a child named Mike said as we poised at the edge of a pool, "Go ahead, Pop, I'll give you a head start." Pop sank like a rock after negotiating what had theretofore been his racing dive.

Children that followed were properly respectful until they reached that alarming state of mind at which they sensed they could do something better than the increasingly clumsy task master who hovered over them. In the case of one kid, Barry, who became so good at the piano he gave it up at the age of nine, I played for him a little exercise the great Eddy Duchin himself had patiently taught me. When I finished, with barely one clinker but two broken knuckles, the child looked at me quizzically and simply asked, "Are you kidding?" Haven't touched a piano since.

Print Getting Smaller

The boy named Dennis became interested in guns, alarmingly, and so I said, "Son, be careful. You don't know about such things so I'll . . ." "Pop," he said, "the .357 magnum will crack any car's cylinder block and is twice as powerful as a .45 automatic. Did you know that the second number of a gun, such as 45-70, is the charge of the powder, and if there's a third number it means the grain of the bullet? And that I'll never shoot an elephant with less than a .600 magnum, though some people use a 30-0-6 with a special head?"

The print in the new telephone book is getting much smaller, too.

$6,000 Fire Hits Building On Front Street In Parsons

PARSONS — Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the interior of a four-room apartment and a large storage room located on the second floor of the brick building occupied by the Parsons Esso Service Center on Front Street Sunday evening. Damage was estimated at approximately $6,000.

The building is owned by John Ours, of the Ours-Kee Motor Co. of Parsons, and the ground floor of the building was occupied by the Esso Service Center, operated by Jack Crosten. The second floor of the brick building contained a large storage room which was used by Crosten to store automobile accessories and parts, while the remainder of the floor space was an apartment occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William R. Clingerman and their two children.

The Clingermans, who were not at home when the blaze was discovered, estimated their loss at approximately $1,000 in furniture and wearing apparel.

Crosten's damage, which was confined to the ceilings of the rooms, was estimated at $500 while damage to the building has been estimated at approximately $4,500, partly covered by insurance.

John Kenny, chief of the Parsons Volunteer Fire Department, said the exact cause of the fire had not been determined.

Commissioners Rule On Monument Move

A member of the pioneer Cresap family and the Cresap Society yesterday informed the Board of Allegany County Commissioners it took the proper action at its last meeting when it did not take up the proposition of placing the Cresap Monument on the Court House lawn.

Col. F. E. Powell, (USA-Ret.) told the county commissioners that the request to place the monument there was made by Ross F. Shaw of Oldtown, whom he said has no authority to represent the Cresap Society and the Cresap descendants in this area.

Shaw had asked the County Commissioners to place on the Court House lawn the monument that had been in Riverside Park. Flood control work necessitated its removal.

Col. Powell enclosed with his letter to the commissioners a copy of a letter he sent to Shaw, which noted that the Cresap Society expressed its appreciation to Shaw for his activities in the family's behalf, but that he was only an honorary member of the society.

Althea Gibson Finally Halted By Shirley Fry

Italian Pair Tops Seixas, Richardson At Wimbledon Nets

By FRED SMITH

LONDON, July 3 (INS)—Louise Brough and Shirey Fry won their women's singles matches today as Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz withdrew from competition to set the stage for the first U. S.-British Wimbledon finals in 17 years.

Top-seeded Miss Brought, defending champ from Beverly Hills, Cal., defeated Britain's Shirley Bloomer (No. 8) 5-7, 6-1, 6-3, while the veteran Miss Fry (No. 5) of St. Petersburg, Fla., sprang a small upset in stopping fourth-seeded Althea Gibson of New York, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

The biggest upset of the day came in the men's doubles when Italy's unseeded team of Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola defeated, 6-3, 8-10, 6-3, 6-4, the second-ranked duo of Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and Ham Richardson of Westfield, N. J.

Mrs. Fleitz (No. 2) of Long Beach, Cal., who said she was expecting a baby, decided not to play her quarter-final match with Britain's Angela Buxton (No. 6).

First Finalist Since 1939

Miss Buxton thus advanced to the semi-finals where she will meet compatriot Pat Ward. The winner of their match will go on to the finals against either Miss Brough or Miss Fry, the first time a British girl has reached that peak since Kay Stammers lost to Alice Marble in 1939.

Miss Gibson's defeat was a tremendous let-down for the girl who got her start playing paddle tennis on the streets of Harlem and who had hoped to become the first negro champion at Wimbledon.

The lithe 28-year-old girl took the first set as both girls appeared to be playing under terrific tension. But Miss Fry regained her composure to take the second set.

In the final set, Miss Gibson began to shake her head as she missed easy volleys. In the seventh game, Miss Fry held on after losing four advantages.

Althea Loses Heart

Miss Gibson appeared to lose heart and netted three shots in succession to give her opponent a 5-3 lead in games. Miss Fry had no trouble thereafter in winning.

Miss Gibson, who had compiled a string of twelve tournament titles, including victories over Miss Brough and Miss Fry, said afterward that her loss was "a big disappointment."

In the men's doubles, the colorful Italian combination got revenge today for last year's licking by Seixas and Tony Trabert, who now has turned pro.

In 1955, the Italians led in sets 2-0, and were ahead 5-0 in what would have been the deciding set but still were beaten by the Americans.

Veteran court observers thought Seixas and Richardson might be saving their strength for the men's singles semi-finals where they meet Australia's Ken Rosewall and Lew Hoad, respectively.

In another doubles match, Australia's Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser beat Chile's Luis Ayala and Sweden's Sven Davidson, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

In their doubles match, Hoad and Rosewall easily stopped their countrymen, Mal Anderson and Roy Emerson, 6-2, 6-4, 12-10.

In women's doubles Misses Fry and Brough stopped France's C. A. Monnot and B. A. Dechambure, 6-0, 6-1.

Misses Gibson and Buxton combined to eliminate Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Forest Hills, N. Y., and Belgium's Christiana Marcelis, 6-3, 6-2.

Barrelville Takes 12-Game Winning Skein To Zihlman

Head Holiday Card In Pen-Mar Circuit; Bombers Won First Two Tilts, 3-2, 9-6

Barrelville puts a 12-game winning streak on the line when it opposes Zihlman, its chief rival, in today's top attraction in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

The game is scheduled for Zihlman at 2:30 and is expected to attract a large holiday crowd.

It will be the third meeting of the Bombers and Zihlman's runner-up team and the latter will be seeking its first win after having lost by 3-2 and 9-6 scores.

Barrelville suffered its lone defeat on May 13 at the hands of Centerville, 8-6, and since then has whipped Grantsville, Flintstone, Zihlman, Mt. Savage and Hyndman twice each and Centerville and Wellersburg once.

Jim McGregor has chalked up five of the wins, Ronnie Sisk, three, George McGregor, two, and Bob Lookabaugh and Bill Dickle one each.

Zihlman trails the league leaders by three games. Barrelville's record is 14-1 and Zihlman's 11-4.

Manager Ray Anderson will likely rely on Jack Brodie, his ace southpaw with a 5-0 record, to stop the Bombers in today's game. Manager "Buck" Fiorita has Jim McGregor (5-0), Sisk (3-0) and George McGregor (2-0) available to throw at the opposition.

Other 2:30 holiday games in the Pen-Mar loop are Mt. Savage Old Germans at Flintstone, Hyndman at Grantsville and Centerville at Wellersburg.

Bar'ville	Opponent	Winner	Loser
6	Grantsville 5	G. McGregor	Hansel
19	Flintstone 4	J. McGregor	M. Fletcher
3	Zihlman 2	J. McGregor	R. Rice
13	Mt. Savage 3	Sisk	Dawson
9	Zihlman 6	Sisk	Fisher
13	Grantsville 7	G. McGregor	Perry
3	Hyndman 2	J. McGregor	Corley

Souchak Leads Americans In British Open

Sarazen, Stranahan, Burke Also Qualify

By TOM OCHILTREE

HOYLAKE, England, July 3 (AP)—Jut-jawed Mike Souchak qualified today for the British Open Golf Championship with a par-shattering 68 that made up for his mistakes and established him as one of the genuine threats in the field.

Three other Americans — Gene Sarazen, Pete Burke and Frank Stranahan — will join Souchak in the reduced field of 96 when the 72-hole tournament proper gets under way tomorrow.

Six Americans failed to qualify. There were moments when it looked as if Uncle Sam would have no nephews in the running this time—a frightening thought for a tournament beginning on the Fourth of July.

Thompson, Player Lead

Australia's Peter Thomson, winner of this championship for the past two years, tied with young Gary Player of South Africa for qualifying honors. Thomson shot some of the finest, steadiest golf of a second day marked by amazingly low scores. He had a 69 over the rugged, 6,950 yard Hoylake course. Player, who had a 68 there yesterday, came up with a 72 at nearby Wallasey, a shorter and easier course.

Souchak never was more in need of a par-battering round.

After his loose 78 at Hoylake yesterday it looked as though the powerful pro from Berwick, Pa. was going to have the mortgage foreclosed on him.

But big Mike had other ideas. He spent the night telling himself he was going to do a 70 in his second qualifying round. Then, striding off early, he performed even better than that. His 35-33—68 over the par 36-35—71 Wallasey course stood as a record there for several hours and gave him a neat qualifying aggregate of 146.

As a record, Mike's round did not stand up. A couple of hours later England's Sid Scott came in with a 67 and late in the afternoon John Jacobs, another English pro, shot a 65. They both wound up with 142 totals, behind a handful including three - time champion Henry Cotton, who had 141's.

The other three Americans, all pros, just edged into the field on 152's, the top qualifying figure.

Sarazen Shoots 75

Sarazen, who won this title in 1932, shot a 75 at Wallasey for his qualifying total.

Burke, the American PGA senior champion from Cold Spring Harbor, N.Y., got a 75 at the tougher Hoylake course.

Qualifiers included South Africa's Bobby Locke, three-time winner of the British Open.

Eight Groups Bid For Tigers Baseball Club

One Offer Exceeds Four Million Mark

DETROIT, July 3—(INS)—The Detroit Baseball Co. disclosed today the names of eight groups who have submitted bids, at least one in excess of four million dollars, for purchase of the Tigers' American League franchise and Briggs Stadium.

Members of the bidding syndicates include such personalities as Bill Veeck, former president of the Cleveland Indians and the St. Louis Browns; screen star Clark Gable, and Jack K. Cooke, owner of the Toronto Maple Leafs National Hockey League Club.

The list of bidders was released at a news conference called by a three-man committee of the baseball club's board of directors, headed by Walter O. "Spike" Briggs. The committee was chosen to screen the offers for recommendation and approval by American League officials and commissioner Ford Frick.

Of the eight groups only the one headed by Robert Goldstein and including actor Clark Gable and screen director Raoul Walsh, has indicated the amount of its bid.

Goldstein disclosed in Los Angeles today that his group has offered in excess of four million dollars for the franchise and stadium.

The name of the successful bidder will be announced by July 31.

The other bidders, in addition to Goldstein's syndicate and Cooke include:

Oscar L. Olson, B. Lyle Fife and Ray Whyte, three directors of the Detroit Lions Football Co.; J. W. Mortell Jr., president and owner of Vibra-Damp Co., of Jackson, Mich.; Fred Knorr, president of WKMH, Detroit, and John Fetzer, president of WKZO, Kalamazoo, Mich.; Harold Gross, president and owner of WJIM-TV, Lansing, Mich.; and Charles O. Finley, Chicago insurance broker, and George Storer, president of the Storer Broadcasting Co.

Veeck's group includes Gerold Hoffberger, owner of the National Brewing Co., of Baltimore, and John Hilson, New York insurance broker.

The Detroit Tigers—called the best franchise in baseball, is expected to be sold for between four and five million dollars.

Althea Gibson Finally Halted By Shirley Fry

Italian Pair Tops Seixas, Richardson At Wimbledon Nets

By FRED SMITH

LONDON, July 3 (INS)—Louise Brough and Shirey Fry won their women's singles matches today as Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz withdrew from competition to set the stage for the first U. S.-British Wimbledon finals in 17 years.

Top-seeded Miss Brought, defending champ from Beverly Hills, Cal., defeated Britain's Shirley Bloomer (No. 8) 5-7, 6-1, 6-3, while the veteran Miss Fry (No. 5) of St. Petersburg, Fla., sprang a small upset in stopping fourth-seeded Althea Gibson of New York, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

The biggest upset of the day came in the men's doubles when Italy's unseeded team of Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola defeated, 6-3, 8-10, 6-3, 6-4, the second-ranked duo of Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and Ham Richardson of Westfield, N. J.

Mrs. Fleitz (No. 2) of Long Beach, Cal., who said she was expecting a baby, decided not to play her quarter-final match with Britain's Angela Buxton (No. 6).

First Finalist Since 1939

Miss Buxton thus advanced to the semi-finals where she will meet compatriot Pat Ward. The winner of their match will go on to the finals against either Miss Brough or Miss Fry, the first time a British girl has reached that peak since Kay Stammers lost to Alice Marble in 1939.

Miss Gibson's defeat was a tremendous let-down for the girl who got her start playing paddle tennis on the streets of Harlem and who had hoped to become the first negro champion at Wimbledon.

The lithe 28-year-old girl took the first set as both girls appeared to be playing under terrific tension. But Miss Fry regained her composure to take the second set.

In the final set, Miss Gibson began to shake her head as she missed easy volleys. In the seventh game, Miss Fry held on after losing four advantages.

Althea Loses Heart

Miss Gibson appeared to lose heart and netted three shots in succession to give her opponent a 5-3 lead in games. Miss Fry had no trouble thereafter in winning.

Miss Gibson, who had compiled a string of twelve tournament titles, including victories over Miss Brough and Miss Fry, said afterward that her loss was "a big disappointment."

In the men's doubles, the colorful Italian combination got revenge today for last year's licking by Seixas and Tony Trabert, who now has turned pro.

In 1955, the Italians led in sets 2-0, and were ahead 5-0 in what would have been the deciding set but still were beaten by the Americans.

Veteran court observers thought Seixas and Richardson might be saving their strength for the men's singles semi-finals where they meet Australia's Ken Rosewall and Lew Hoad, respectively.

In another doubles match, Australia's Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser beat Chile's Luis Ayala and Sweden's Sven Davidson, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

In their doubles match, Hoad and Rosewall easily stopped their countrymen, Mal Anderson and Roy Emerson, 6-2, 6-4, 12-10.

In women's doubles Misses Fry and Brough stopped France's C. A. Monnot and B. A. Dechambure, 6-0, 6-1.

Misses Gibson and Buxton combined to eliminate Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Forest Hills, N. Y., and Belgium's Christiana Marcelis, 6-3, 6-2.

Barrelville Takes 12-Game Winning Skein To Zihlman

Head Holiday Card In Pen-Mar Circuit; Bombers Won First Two Tilts, 3-2, 9-6

Barrelville puts a 12-game winning streak on the line when it opposes Zihlman, its chief rival, in today's top attraction in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

The game is scheduled for Zihlman at 2:30 and is expected to attract a large holiday crowd.

It will be the third meeting of the Bombers and Zihlman's runner-up team and the latter will be seeking its first win after having lost by 3-2 and 9-6 scores.

Barrelville suffered its lone defeat on May 13 at the hands of Centerville, 8-6, and since then has whipped Grantsville, Flintstone, Zihlman, Mt. Savage and Hyndman twice each and Centerville and Wellersburg once.

Jim McGregor has chalked up five of the wins, Ronnie Sisk, three, George McGregor, two, and Bob Lookabaugh and Bill Dickle one each.

Zihlman trails the league leaders by three games. Barrelville's record is 14-1 and Zihlman's 11-4.

Manager Ray Anderson will likely rely on Jack Brodie, his ace southpaw with a 5-0 record, to stop the Bombers in today's game. Manager "Buck" Fiorita has Jim McGregor (5-0), Sisk (3-0) and George McGregor (2-0) available to throw at the opposition.

Other 2:30 holiday games in the Pen-Mar loop are Mt. Savage Old Germans at Flintstone, Hyndman at Grantsville and Centerville at Wellersburg.

Bar'ville	Opponent	Winner	Loser
6	Grantsville 5	G. McGregor	Hansel
19	Flintstone 4	J. McGregor	M. Fletcher
3	Zihlman 2	J. McGregor	R. Rice
13	Mt. Savage 3	Sisk	Dawson
9	Zihlman 6	Sisk	Fisher
13	Grantsville 7	G. McGregor	Perry
3	Hyndman 2	J. McGregor	Corley

Souchak Leads Americans In British Open

Sarazen, Stranahan, Burke Also Qualify

By TOM OCHILTREE

HOYLAKE, England, July 3 (AP)—Jut-jawed Mike Souchak qualified today for the British Open Golf Championship with a par-shattering 68 that made up for his mistakes and established him as one of the genuine threats in the field.

Three other Americans — Gene Sarazen, Pete Burke and Frank Stranahan — will join Souchak in the reduced field of 96 when the 72-hole tournament proper gets under way tomorrow.

Six Americans failed to qualify. There were moments when it looked as if Uncle Sam would have no nephews in the running this time—a frightening thought for a tournament beginning on the Fourth of July.

Thompson, Player Lead

Australia's Peter Thomson, winner of this championship for the past two years, tied with young Gary Player of South Africa for qualifying honors. Thomson shot some of the finest, steadiest golf of a second day marked by amazingly low scores. He had a 69 over the rugged, 6,950 yard Hoylake course. Player, who had a 68 there yesterday, came up with a 72 at nearby Wallasey, a shorter and easier course.

Souchak never was more in need of a par-battering round.

After his loose 78 at Hoylake yesterday it looked as though the powerful pro from Berwick, Pa. was going to have the mortgage foreclosed on him.

But big Mike had other ideas. He spent the night telling himself he was going to do a 70 in his second qualifying round. Then, striding off early, he performed even better than that. His 35-33—68 over the par 36-35—71 Wallasey course stood as a record there for several hours and gave him a neat qualifying aggregate of 146.

As a record, Mike's round did not stand up. A couple of hours later England's Sid Scott came in with a 67 and late in the afternoon John Jacobs, another English pro, shot a 65. They both wound up with 142 totals, behind a handful including three - time champion Henry Cotton, who had 141's.

The other three Americans, all pros, just edged into the field on 152's, the top qualifying figure.

Sarazen Shoots 75

Sarazen, who won this title in 1932, shot a 75 at Wallasey for his qualifying total.

Burke, the American PGA senior champion from Cold Spring Harbor, N.Y., got a 75 at the tougher Hoylake course.

Qualifiers included South Africa's Bobby Locke, three-time winner of the British Open.

Clifford Towles Resigns As Capon Bridge High Coach

Takes Physical Education Job In Miami, Fla.

Coached Hampshire County School Teams For Past Four Years

Clifford Towles, basketball and baseball coach at Capon Bridge High School in Hampshire county, W. Va., for the past four years, has resigned to take over a physical education job at a Miami, Fla., school, it was announced last night by A. Clinton Loy, superintendent of Hampshire County schools.

Towles, a native of Florida, came to Capon Bridge to take over the reins as basketball mentor at the start of the 1952-53 season. Over four seasons his basketball teams won 19 and lost 60 games. He had more success in baseball, however, as his four teams won 32 and lost 14 and were in the running for sectional honors several seasons.

Ed Strauss coached basketball and baseball at Capon Bridge before Towles took over the reins there.

Grid Rules Changes • • • Helmets Compulsory

Frederick Is Good • • • NBC Telecast Tops

By C. V. BURNS

HENRY V. PORTER, of Chicago, executive secretary of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, who has appeared here several times at football clinics sponsored by the Allgany County Board of Education, reports that grid rules changes adopted by the federation at its recent sessions in Wyoming include:

1. The clock will be started after an official timeout "when the ball is ready for play." In the past the clock has been started with the snap of the ball.

2. A team kicking off shall not touch the ball or receiver, and must not obstruct the receiver's path in a fair catch. The old rule often involved judgment on the part of the referee whether there had been interference.

3. A first down will be called in all cases where a scrimmage kick is received beyond the line of scrimmage, except when both sides are charged with rules infractions.

Porter defined a scrimmage kick as a punt, or a drop kick or place kick made as a field goal attempt.

THE federation recommended to the baseball rules committee that a high school player be declared out if he steps into a batter's box without a protective helmet.

Present rules require wearing of helmets but provide no penalty for infraction.

Players of the local schools in the Bi-State Conference donned helmets when they stepped to the plate in games played during the past season.

GENIAL GENE Shaw, Allegany High School's basketball mentor, announces that Frederick and Westminster will replace Berlin, Pa., and Southern of Oakland on the Campers' cage schedule during the 1956-57 season.

The Campers will play the Cadets and Owls in December. Frederick plays here and Westminster will be met there.

FREDERICK is reported to have one of the hottest American Legion junior baseball teams in the state this season.

To date the Francis Scott Key Post aggregation has won seven consecutive games in the Western District League, including a pair of victories over Morris Frock Post, Hagerstown, always a strong contender in past years.

A RULE limiting the names of thoroughbreds to 14 characters—spaces and punctuation marks included—has been amended by the Jockey Club, raising the limit to 16.

The change, according to Marshall Cassidy, club executive secretary, said the change was made "to make it easier for owners to find names for their horses."

It's tough enough now trying to squeeze screwball names of race horses into headlines.

THE National Broadcasting Company deserves a vote of thanks for that excellent two-hour telecast of the final qualifying trials for the Olympic Games from Los Angeles last Saturday.

Bill Henry, who in our opinion is one of the most pleasant speakers on the air lanes, and his staff, did a magnificent job and last but not least the cameramen really were "on the ball."

The telecast of this great show by America's cream of the crop in track and field was terrific.

Yankees Win In 12th, 4-3

NEW YORK, July 3 (INS) — Pitcher Mickey McDermott, pinch-hitting for shortstop Gil McDougald, singled home an unearned run in the 12th inning today to give the New York Yankees a 4-to-3 victory over Baltimore.

Two errors helped the Yanks in the 12th. Second baseman Bobby Adams' wild throw gave Norm Siebern a life at first, and he went to third when Yogi Berra singled after third baseman Wayne Causey had dropped his pop foul.

The Orioles walked pinchhitter Tommy Byrne intentionally, but McDermott singled on the first pitch to score Siebern. Tom Sturdivant, third Yankee pitcher, became the winner and George Zuverink, Oriole reliefer, the loser.

Berra's hit was the Yankees' first since the fourth inning. They had peppered starter Bill Wight for ten in the first four innings—half of them bunts. They scored three times in the second with the aid of George Kell's first error in 72 games—four short of a major league record for third basemen—and a wild pitch. Score:

Wilson Blanks Detroit, 6-0

DETROIT, July 3 (INS)—Jim Wilson pitched a six-hitter for the Chicago White Sox today as he blanked Detroit, 6 to 0, which extended the Tigers' home losing streak to 12 games.

Chicago remained 3½ games behind the league-leading New York Yankees who downed Baltimore, 4 to 3, in 12 innings.

Wilson struck out only one batter, and the Tigers made two serious scoring threats.

Jim Rivera foiled both as he threw out Billy Hoeft at the plate in the fifth inning and made a leaping catch of Frank House's fly against the right field screen with Earl Torgenson on base in the ninth.

Hoeft, who gave up all six runs, was charged with the loss. The win was Wilson's 11th in 15 decisions.

George Petras, Stony Jackson Play For Title

Meet Today In 34th Spring Title Match

A new spring golf champion will be crowned at the Cumberland Country Club today when Orville W. "Stony" Jackson and George Petras clash in the 18-hole final of the annual handicap tournament.

Petras defeated Judge Morgan C. Harris, 2 up on the 18th, Ed Mattingly, 1 up on the 18th, and Cliff Hafer, 1 up in 36 holes to reach the finals.

Jackson eliminated Robert Davis, 2 and 1, Dr. A. G. Sandhoff, 2 and 1, and Russell Ponton, 5 and 4.

The match will windup the 34th spring tourney staged at the club since 1920 when Dr. Karl P. Heintz was the first winner. Dr. Heintz, incidentally, has captured the most titles in spring tournaments—a total of five. Peter E. Berry has won four times and Russell Ponton, Kenneth Fletcher and George Werkmeister are three-time winners.

Senators Edge Bosox In 11th

Lemon's smash—his fourth hit of the day—scored Roy Sievers who had singled.

Washington scored five runs in the first inning, and with Dean Stone pitching steadily, the Senators appeared headed for an easy victory. But Stone weakened in the ninth and Boston parlayed a walk, a triple by Sam White, a double by pinch-hitter Pete Daley and a single to score three runs and tie the game 5 to 5.

Skinner Hits Pinch Homer, Bucs Win, 6-5

Phillies Capture Opening Game, 7-2

PITTSBURGH, July 3 (AP)—With one out in the ninth and the Pittsburgh Pirates trailing by one run, pinch-hitter Bob Skinner socked a two-run homer into the right field stands today to give the Pirates a 6-5 victory over the Phils.

The Phils defeated the Pirates 7-2 before the regularly scheduled contest in the playoff of a game that was suspended May 13 due to Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew law.

The victory in the full game went to Johnny O'Brien, an infielder who Pirate Manager Bobby Bragan sent to the mound in the seventh inning. In the two and a third innings he pitched, O'Brien didn't give up a hit, walked one and fanned one. He has had one other appearance this season as a relief twirler.

Times-News Wins, 10-8

The Times-News won an uphill battle from the Jaycees yesterday at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 10-8 and tied the Rotary Club for first place in the Hot Stove Baseball League.

Each team has won six games and lost two.

The Jaycees scored eight runs in the second inning to take an 8-1 lead but the Newsies scored one in the third, five in the fourth and three in the fifth to pull the game out of the fire.

Donald Nave, who hurled the last five innings for the Times-News, yielded only four hits, fanned 10 and issued three bases on balls. Jack Cranor went the route for the Jaycees, was nicked for 15 hits, fanned nine and walked four.

Trailing 8-7 going into the 5th inning, the Newsies sewed it up with a three-run rally. Roger Growden singled to right to drive in the tying run and hits by Dave Owings and Ted McGraw netted the insurance tally.

Bob Collins with a double and three singles in four trips and Ted McGraw with four hits in five at bats led the Times-News attack. Growden, Owings and John DelaGrange had two hits each. Cranor collected a triple and two singles in four trips to account for three of the Jaycees' eight blows. Score:

CLEVELAND, July 3 (INS)—Homers by Vic Wertz, Jim Busby and Al Rosen spearheaded the Cleveland Indians to a 9 to 3 victory over the Kansas City Athletics in Cleveland today.

Wertz slammed his 17th home run of the season, and Busby hit his sixth as the Tribe scored four runs in the first inning. Rosen connected for his 11th homer in the third inning.

Ray Narleski, who relieved starting pitcher Mike Garcia in the fifth for the Indians, was credited with the victory although he was forced to leave the game in the seventh inning because of elbow trouble. Don Mossi finished the pitching chores.

CHICAGO, July 3 (INS)—The St. Louis Cardinals made five errors today to hand the Chicago Cubs a 7-to-4 victory before 10,463 fans at Wrigley Field.

Jim Davis, who started with only one day's rest, pitched seven and two-thirds innings to post his third win against as many losses. He was relieved by Turk Lown.

Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell was the victim of his teammates' leaky defense. Only two of the five Chicago runs off him in the first four innings was earned. Ellis Kinder came on for the Cards in the fifth and was followed by Jim Konstanty and Jackie Collum.

Clifford Towles Resigns As Capon Bridge High Coach

Takes Physical Education Job In Miami, Fla.

Coached Hampshire County School Teams For Past Four Years

Clifford Towles, basketball and baseball coach at Capon Bridge High School in Hampshire county, W. Va., for the past four years, has resigned to take over a physical education job at a Miami, Fla., school, it was announced last night by A. Clinton Loy, superintendent of Hampshire County schools.

Towles, a native of Florida, came to Capon Bridge to take over the reins as basketball mentor at the start of the 1952-53 season. Over four seasons his basketball teams won 19 and lost 60 games. He had more success in baseball, however, as his four teams won 32 and lost 14 and were in the running for sectional honors several seasons.

Grid Rules Changes • • • Helmets Compulsory

By C. V. BURNS

HENRY V. PORTER, of Chicago, executive secretary of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, who has appeared here several times at football clinics sponsored by the Allgany County Board of Education, reports that grid rules changes adopted by the federation at its recent sessions in Wyoming include:

1. The clock will be started after an official timeout "when the ball is ready for play." In the past the clock has been started with the snap of the ball.

2. A team kicking off shall not touch the ball or receiver, and must not obstruct the receiver's path in a fair catch. The old rule often involved judgment on the part of the referee whether there had been interference.

3. A first down will be called in all cases where a scrimmage kick is received beyond the line of scrimmage, except when both sides are charged with rules infractions.

Porter defined a scrimmage kick as a punt, or a drop kick or place kick made as a field goal attempt.

THE federation recommended to the baseball rules committee that a high school player be declared out if he steps into a batter's box without a protective helmet.

Present rules require wearing of helmets but provide no penalty for infraction.

GENIAL GENE Shaw, Allegany High School's basketball mentor, announces that Frederick and Westminster will replace Berlin, Pa., and Southern of Oakland on the Campers' cage schedule during the 1956-57 season.

The Campers will play the Cadets and Owls in December. Frederick plays here and Westminster will be met there.

FREDERICK is reported to have one of the hottest American Legion junior baseball teams in the state this season.

To date the Francis Scott Key Post aggregation has won seven consecutive games in the Western District League, including a pair of victories over Morris Frock Post, Hagerstown, always a strong contender in past years.

A RULE limiting the names of thoroughbreds to 14 characters—spaces and punctuation marks included—has been amended by the Jockey Club, raising the limit to 16.

The change, according to Marshall Cassidy, club executive secretary, said the change was made "to make it easier for owners to find names for their horses."

THE National Broadcasting Company deserves a vote of thanks for that excellent two-hour telecast of the final qualifying trials for the Olympic Games from Los Angeles last Saturday.

Bill Henry, who in our opinion is one of the most pleasant speakers on the air lanes, and his staff, did a magnificent job and last but not least the cameramen really were "on the ball."

Yankees Win In 12th, 4-3

NEW YORK, July 3 (INS) — Pitcher Mickey McDermott, pinch-hitting for shortstop Gil McDougald, singled home an unearned run in the 12th inning today to give the New York Yankees a 4-to-3 victory over Baltimore.

Two errors helped the Yanks in the 12th. Second baseman Bobby Adams' wild throw gave Norm Siebern a life at first, and he went to third when Yogi Berra singled after third baseman Wayne Causey had dropped his pop foul.

The Orioles walked pinchhitter Tommy Byrne intentionally, but McDermott singled on the first pitch to score Siebern. Tom Sturdivant, third Yankee pitcher, became the winner and George Zuverink, Oriole reliefer, the loser.

Berra's hit was the Yankees' first since the fourth inning. They had peppered starter Bill Wight for ten in the first four innings—half of them bunts. They scored three times in the second with the aid of George Kell's first error in 72 games—four short of a major league record for third basemen—and a wild pitch. Score:

Wilson Blanks Detroit, 6-0

DETROIT, July 3 (INS)—Jim Wilson pitched a six-hitter for the Chicago White Sox today as he blanked Detroit, 6 to 0, which extended the Tigers' home losing streak to 12 games.

Chicago remained 3½ games behind the league-leading New York Yankees who downed Baltimore, 4 to 3, in 12 innings.

Wilson struck out only one batter, and the Tigers made two serious scoring threats.

Jim Rivera foiled both as he threw out Billy Hoeft at the plate in the fifth inning and made a leaping catch of Frank House's fly against the right field screen with Earl Torgenson on base in the ninth.

Hoeft, who gave up all six runs, was charged with the loss. The win was Wilson's 11th in 15 decisions.

George Petras, Stony Jackson Play For Title

Meet Today In 34th Spring Title Match

A new spring golf champion will be crowned at the Cumberland Country Club today when Orville W. "Stony" Jackson and George Petras clash in the 18-hole final of the annual handicap tournament.

Petras defeated Judge Morgan C. Harris, 2 up on the 18th, Ed Mattingly, 1 up on the 18th, and Cliff Hafer, 1 up in 36 holes to reach the finals.

Jackson eliminated Robert Davis, 2 and 1, Dr. A. G. Sandhoff, 2 and 1, and Russell Ponton, 5 and 4.

Ponton, Sandhoff and Mattingly were former spring champions.

The match will windup the 34th spring tourney staged at the club since 1920 when Dr. Karl P. Heintz was the first winner. Dr. Heintz, incidentally, has captured the most titles in spring tournaments—a total of five. Peter E. Berry has won four times and Russell Ponton, Kenneth Fletcher and George Werkmeister are three-time winners.

Senators Edge Bosox In 11th

WASHINGTON, July 3 (INS) — Jim Lemon's 11th-inning triple off the right field wall gave Washington a 6 to 5 win over Boston today.

Lemon's smash—his fourth hit of the day—scored Roy Sievers who had singled.

Washington scored five runs in the first inning, and with Dean Stone pitching steadily, the Senators appeared headed for an easy victory. But Stone weakened in the ninth and Boston parlayed a walk, a triple by Sam White, a double by pinch-hitter Pete Daley and a single to score three runs and tie the game 5 to 5.

Winning pitcher was reliefer Camilo Pascual and the loser was Leo Kiely who came on in the ninth.

Burdette, who posted his eighth win against four losses, was backed by a 14-hit attack.

Phillies Capture Opening Game, 7-2

PITTSBURGH, July 3 (AP)—With one out in the ninth and the Pittsburgh Pirates trailing by one run, pinch-hitter Bob Skinner socked a two-run homer into the right field stands today to give the Pirates a 6-5 victory over the Phils.

The Phils defeated the Pirates 7-2 before the regularly scheduled contest in the playoff of a game that was suspended May 13 due to Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew law.

Skinner's homer was his second of the season.

The victory in the full game went to Johnny O'Brien, an infielder who Pirate Manager Bobby Bragan sent to the mound in the seventh inning. In the two and a third innings he pitched, O'Brien didn't give up a hit, walked one and fanned one. He has had one other appearance this season as a relief twirler.

Times-News Wins, 10-8

The Times-News won an uphill battle from the Jaycees yesterday at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 10-8 and tied the Rotary Club for first place in the Hot Stove Baseball League.

Each team has won six games and lost two.

The Jaycees scored eight runs in the second inning to take an 8-1 lead but the Newsies scored one in the third, five in the fourth and three in the fifth to pull the game out of the fire.

Donald Nave, who hurled the last five innings for the Times-News, yielded only four hits, fanned 10 and issued three bases on balls. Jack Cranor went the route for the Jaycees, was nicked for 15 hits, fanned nine and walked four.

Trailing 8-7 going into the 5th inning, the Newsies sewed it up with a three-run rally. Roger Growden singled to right to drive in the tying run and hits by Dave Owings and Ted McGraw netted the insurance tally.

Bob Collins with a double and three singles in four trips and Ted McGraw with four hits in five at bats led the Times-News attack. Growden, Owings and John DelaGrange had two hits each. Cranor collected a triple and two singles in four trips to account for three of the Jaycees' eight blows. Score:

Indians Beat Kansas City

CLEVELAND, July 3 (INS)—Homers by Vic Wertz, Jim Busby and Al Rosen spearheaded the Cleveland Indians to a 9 to 3 victory over the Kansas City Athletics in Cleveland today.

Wertz slammed his 17th home run of the season, and Busby hit his sixth as the Tribe scored four runs in the first inning. Rosen connected for his 11th homer in the third inning.

Hector Lopez hit a homer—his 13th—in the fourth for Kansas City.

Cleveland sewed up the game with four runs in the eighth inning, catcher Jim Hegan doubling with the bases loaded to drive in three of them.

Ray Narleski, who relieved starting pitcher Mike Garcia in the fifth for the Indians, was credited with the victory although he was forced to leave the game in the seventh inning because of elbow trouble. Don Mossi finished the pitching chores.

Cards Blow Up, Cubs Win, 7-4

CHICAGO, July 3 (INS)—The St. Louis Cardinals made five errors today to hand the Chicago Cubs a 7-to-4 victory before 10,463 fans at Wrigley Field.

The win enabled the Cubs to sweep a two-game series from the fourth place Cards.

Jim Davis, who started with only one day's rest, pitched seven and two-thirds innings to post his third win against as many losses. He was relieved by Turk Lown.

Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell was the victim of his teammates' leaky defense. Only two of the five Chicago runs off him in the first four innings was earned. Ellis Kinder came on for the Cards in the fifth and was followed by Jim Konstanty and Jackie Collum.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

I Y X A ' O U O T U B R, Y O R I G T U C Y Z X
Y X C Q R T R U L X ' A Z L V L U B R — K Z K R.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: WE'LL CRY BOTH ARTS AND LEARNING DOWN, AND HEY! THEN UP GO WE!—QUARLES.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT

Declarer could not afford to let East's king win the opening lead because of the threatening club situation. Besides, there appeared to be ten tricks begging to be grabbed; four hearts, five diamonds and the spade. So South took the opening lead, led the king of diamonds, and suddenly discovered there were only three diamond tricks where a moment before there had appeared to be five.

South salvaged all he could by taking four heart tricks, then the queen and ace of diamonds. This brought him to eight tricks and the end of the road. A club lead from dummy gave West the balance of the tricks.

The hand illustrates how important it is for the declarer to start with a pessimistic view of his prospects. The assumption by South that he had five diamond tricks was not borne out by subsequent events. It was within the realm of possibility that one of the opponents might have all four outstanding diamonds. If the diamonds divided in any other way, ten tricks were a certainty. All of South's efforts, therefore, must be bent to playing the hand on the basis that one defender has all the diamonds. This chain of reasoning, if carried one step further, would have resulted in nine tricks.

If the missing four diamonds are presumed to be in the West hand, they cannot be caught by any line of play. Since declarer cannot cope with this possibility, he dismisses it and turns to one he can deal with, namely, that there are four diamonds in the East hand. These can be trapped by proper play.

A diamond is played to the ace at trick two, and when West shows out, another is returned. South wins East's ten with the king, and reenters dummy with a heart for another diamond play. East's jack is caught, and South makes all four of his diamonds. These, together with the four heart tricks and the spade ace, produce nine tricks. Dummy's fifth diamond, it is true, gets lost in the shuffle, but it is a minor tragedy.

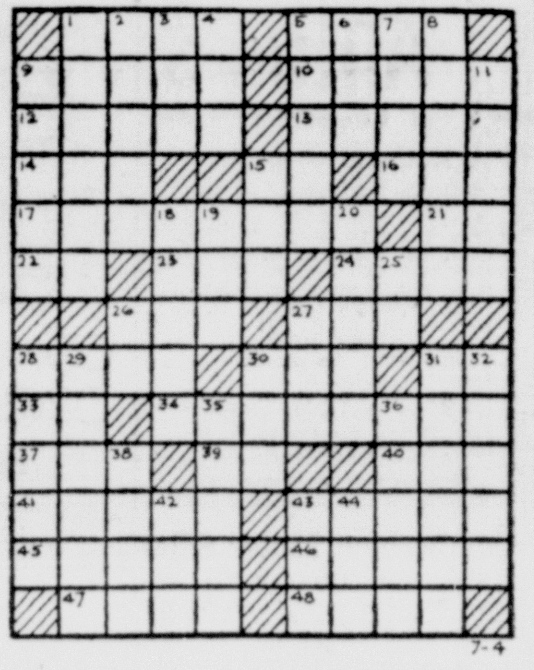
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

I Y X A ' O U O T U B R, Y O R I G T U C Y Z X
Y X C Q R T R U L X ' A Z L V L U B R — K Z K R.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: WE'LL CRY BOTH ARTS AND LEARNING DOWN, AND HEY! THEN UP GO WE!—QUARLES.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT

Opening lead—queen of spades.

Declarer could not afford to let East's king win the opening lead because of the threatening club situation. Besides, there appeared to be ten tricks begging to be grabbed; four hearts, five diamonds and the spade. So South took the opening lead, led the king of diamonds, and suddenly discovered there were only three diamond tricks where a moment before there had appeared to be five.

South salvaged all he could by taking four heart tricks, then the queen and ace of diamonds. This brought him to eight tricks and the end of the road. A club lead from dummy gave West the balance of the tricks.

The hand illustrates how important it is for the declarer to start with a pessimistic view of his prospects. The assumption by South that he had five diamond tricks was not borne out by subsequent events. It was within the realm of possibility that one of the opponents might have all four outstanding diamonds. If the diamonds divided in any other way, ten tricks were a certainty. All of South's efforts, therefore, must be bent to playing the hand on the basis that one defender has all the diamonds. This chain of reasoning, if carried one step further, would have resulted in nine tricks.

If the missing four diamonds are presumed to be in the West hand, they cannot be caught by any line of play. Since declarer cannot cope with this possibility, he dismisses it and turns to one he can deal with, namely, that there are four diamonds in the East hand. These can be trapped by proper play.

A diamond is played to the ace at trick two, and when West shows out, another is returned. South wins East's ten with the king, and reenters dummy with a heart for another diamond play. East's jack is caught, and South makes all four of his diamonds. These, together with the four heart tricks and the spade ace, produce nine tricks. Dummy's fifth diamond, it is true, gets lost in the shuffle, but it is a minor tragedy.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear mother, Mary J. Friend, who passed away July 5, 1951, 5 years ago.

They say time heals all sorrow,
And helps us to forget,
But time so far has only proved,
How much I Miss Mom yet.
Whisper that my heart is with her,
In the Kingdom up above,
Tell Mom that I miss her always,
Tell Mom that I send her all my love.

Loving daughter who will never forget,
NINA M. FELTON

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear mother, Mary J. Friend, who passed away July 5, 1951, 5 years ago.

They say time heals all sorrow,
And helps us to forget,
But time so far has only proved,
How much I Miss Mom yet.
Whisper that my heart is with her,
In the Kingdom up above,
Tell Mom that I miss her always,
Tell Mom that I send her all my love.

Loving daughter who will never forget,
NINA M. FELTON

Market Rebounds As Steel Issues Wipe Out Declines

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP) — A buoyant stock market today rebounded from yesterday's loss and steel issues more than wiped out the declines resulting from initial reaction to the strike.

Leading issues stepped ahead from 1 to 3 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 70 cents to $182.90 with the industrial component up $1.80, the rails down 50 cents and the utilities up 30 cents.

Kaiser Aluminum was next, up ⅞ at 58¼, followed by General Motors, up ¼ at 45⅜.

As the steels recovered, U. S. Steel was the eighth most active stock, up 1⅝ at 58, more than retracing its loss of 1⅜ yesterday.

Market Rebounds As Steel Issues Wipe Out Declines

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP) — A buoyant stock market today rebounded from yesterday's loss and steel issues more than wiped out the declines resulting from initial reaction to the strike.

Leading issues stepped ahead from 1 to 3 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 70 cents to $182.90 with the industrial component up $1.80, the rails down 50 cents and the utilities up 30 cents.

Of 1,130 issues traded the gains outnumbered losses by 529 to 325.

Panhandle Oil was the most active stock, up ⅞ at 18¾ on 40,100 shares, continuing its heavy turnover of recent sessions.

Boeing Airplane was No. 2, up ⅝ at 90⅛ on 34,200 shares. Hupp Corp. was third most active, up ⅛ at 6⅝.

Kaiser Aluminum was next, up ⅞ at 58¼, followed by General Motors, up ¼ at 45⅜.

As the steels recovered, U. S. Steel was the eighth most active stock, up 1⅝ at 58, more than retracing its loss of 1⅜ yesterday.

Polio Vaccine Speedup Urged In This Area

Eligibility Rules Have Been Revised

Physicians of Allegany County are being advised by the Allegany County Health Department that every child who has reached the age of three months and is under 20 years, and every pregnant woman, should have two doses of poliomyelitis vaccine as soon as possible.

The Health Department, according to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer ,is convinced that polio vaccine is safe, and will in most instances prevent paralytic poliomyelitis.

More Are Eligible

Physicians, he said, are being urged to use every effort to secure the inoculation of the first two doses, a month apart, and a third dose after six or seven months, in as many eligible individuals as possible in the families they serve.

Dr. Frantz emphasized that the age priorities for the vaccine—the 1-through-15 age group until recently, has been extended downward, to include children who are at least three months old, and upward to include 19-year-olds

All pregnant women were included in the priority group after five adult female paralytic polio cases, two of them in pregnant women, were found in a small Eastern Shore community.

May Lose Supplies

Dr. Frantz pointed out that the Maryland State Department of Health was informed recently by the U. S. Public Health Service that if vaccine supplies allotted to Maryland are not used up more promptly, some of the available supply will be withdrawn and earmarked for other parts of the country.

In a June 15 report, the State Health Department estimated that 57.1 per cent of the children in the 1-through-15 age group had received one or more shots of polio vaccine, and that 47.7 per cent of the children had received at least two shots.

B&O Passenger Train Derails At Brunswick

BRUNSWICK, Md., July 3 (AP)—The last four cars of the Baltimore and Ohio's eastbound Shenandoah passenger train derailed near this Western Maryland railroad town today. One person was reported injured and eight or nine "shaken up."

They were taken to Frederick Memorial Hospital at Frederick, Md., about 10 miles away.

Three of the four cars—all pullmans—were overturned.

B. H. Peterson, B&O road foreman at Brunswick, said the remaining eight cars and the diesel-electric engine proceeded on to Washington. The train originated at Chicago and was due in the nation's capital at 3:30 p. m. (EST). Its ultimate destination was Jersey City.

The accident occurred near the railroad yards, along the Potomac River, and several miles east of the railroad bridge over the river at Harpers Ferry, W.Va., that was damaged by fire early last month.

There was no identification of those taken to the hospital, but all reportedly were from out of state.

Leafhoppers Found In Potomac Valley Area

County Agent Joseph M. Steger and Wallace C. Harding Jr., an extension instructor in entomology at the University of Maryland, found many potato leafhoppers on alfalfa in Allegany County, especially in the Potomac River valley area yesterday.

Harding explained that the leafhoppers originate in Georgia and are carried here by winds, sometimes at speeds as great as 100 miles a day. The adult leafhopper lays her eggs in alfalfa. When the young hatch, they begin to eat the alfalfa. The feeding causes a severe yellowing and stunting of alfalfa.

The entomologist suggests that farmers spray their alfalfa with one quart of methoxychlor or one-and-one-half pints of macathion with eight to 20 gallons of water per acre seven days before the second cutting. Another spray should be applied before the third cutting.

Significance Of July 4 Emphasized

July 4 has been a red-letter day in the United States calendar ever since 1776, when the Continental Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence on that date 180 years ago today.

In the past 180 years there have been many other significant events on the anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence.

Some 42 of these events are outlined in a reference book entitled "Famous First Facts," written by Joseph Nathan Kane, which is available for reference in the Cumberland Free Public Library.

First Flag

On the very first anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence the American Flag was displayed for the first time on a man-of-war in the Portsmouth, N. H., harbor.

Twenty-five years after the declaration was adopted and signed by John Hancock, president, and Charles Thomson, secretary, of the Continental Congress, Thomas Jefferson became the first President of the United States to review military forces. That was in Washington July 4, 1801.

A number of Maryland events of significance occurred on July 4. On July 4, 1815, the cornerstone was laid for the first monument to George Washington, built in Baltimore. There was an appropriate Masonic ceremony on the occasion. Land for the monument was donated by General John Eager Howard, Maryland's Revolutionary War hero, and the funds for building the 180-foot-high shaft were obtained through a lottery.

First Completed

Twelve years after the start of Baltimore's Washington Monument, the first Washington Monument to be completed was erected in a single day, July 4, 1827, near Boonsboro in Washington County by Isaac C. Lutz.

The two signers of the Declaration of Independence who later became President of the United States died on the same day, July 4, 1826, 50 years after the 13 colonies had begun their bold bid for freedom. They were Thomas Jefferson and John Adams. Another future President of the United States, Calvin Coolidge, was born on Independence Day in 1872 in Plymouth, Vermont.

Charles Carroll of Carrollton, the only signer of the declaration who outlived Adams and Jefferson, laid the cornerstone for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in Baltimore on July 4, 1828. He was a member of the first B&O board of directors.

An event of July 4, 1921, was a sign of things to come. On that date the first state tax on cigarets became effective in Iowa. On

Camp Cliffside Welcomes Boys From Seven States

Boys from seven states and the District of Columbia began arriving yesterday for the season at Camp Cliffside on the South Branch River 21 miles from Cumberland and only a half mile off W. Va. Route 28 between Cumberland and Romney.

The camp period for boys, ages seven to 16, formally opens Saturday, July 7, but a score or more made arrangements to spend the Fourth of July at Camp Cliffside and stay on for the month ending August 4 when a two-weeks camp for girls begins.

Directed by William H. "Uncle Bill" Lewis, Camp Cliffside is the only such recreation centre in the Cumberland area. It has been operated continuously as a summer camp for nearly 40 years.

There are accommodations at the camp for 75 boys and entries will be accepted until Saturday. Arrangements may be made through Frostburg phone 679-J or Romney 24F022. As of noon yesterday reservations had been made for 62 boys, according to Director Lewis.

A number of those registered for this year's camp are sons of previous campers at Cliffside.

Board Approves County Health Dept. Payroll

$61,418 Will Be Paid 18 Employes

Payrolls totalling $61,418.28 which Allegany County will pay some 18 Health Department officials and employes during the fiscal year which started Sunday were approved yesterday by the Board of County Commissioners.

The action was taken after Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer, appeared before the board to explain the recommendations of the Case Commission concerning salaries.

Dr. Frantz said the State of Maryland will pay the salaries of all Health Department officials and employes who are members of the State Merit System. The county will be responsible for payment of salaries of officials and employes who are not members of the merit system.

The commissioners yesterday also authorized payment of $112 to L. E. Crabtree of Oldtown as reimbursement for 14 sheep killed by dogs. Crabtree had valued the breeding ewes at $15 each, but the county can pay only the assessed valuation.

A delegation of four attended the meeting to protest the dusty condition of Potomac Hollow Road at Barton. The protestants were Mrs. William R. Porter, Mrs. Kenneth Porter, Mrs. John Fairgrieve and Cecil Moore. The commissioners promised that action would be taken in the near future.

Fourth Of July Fireworks Display Scheduled Here

All signs point to a quiet but pleasant Fourth of July celebration in the Tri-State area.

The Weatherman has cooperated by promising pleasant weather—a few degrees below yesterday's high of 88.

The City of Cumberland will celebrate Independence Day with a concert by the Cumberland Municipal Band in Constitution Park amphitheater at 8 p.m.

Following the concert, there will be a fireworks display, set off from the brow of the park where it can be seen in virtually every section of the city.

The three swimming pools, Constitution Park, Celanese and Minke's, are prepared for large crowds. Stock car races at Potomac Valley Speedway, Fort Ashby, and a few area baseball games are expected to draw hundreds more. Still others are heading for the golf links, tennis courts, river cottages, Deep Creek Lake or other Western Maryland recreational areas to take advantage of this last summer holiday until Labor Day, September 3.

Deaths

Dixon, Lawrence H., 40, Hyattsville.

Malloy, Mrs. John, 68, Johnstown, Pa.

Savage, William R., 81, former resident of Deer Park.

The City Recreation Board will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the mayor's office in City Hall.

Army Reservists Studying Fire-Fighting Techniques

Companies G and H of the 319th Infantry Division, USAR, here are attending special classes in fire fighting techniques under the supervision of members of Cumberland's Fire Department.

The local Army Reserve units are preparing to attend two weeks of training at Indiantown Gap, Pa., from July 15 to July 29 and pursuant to instructions from the commanding officer of the 80th Infantry Division at the Army reservation, will be given two hours of instruction in fighting fires.

The order was passed down to the training units because the reservation last year was severely burned in some areas by fires caused by the troops during their training sessions.

The first hour of the training for the local Army Reserve units was held last night for all officers and non-commissioned officers of the two companies. The class was held in the Civil Defense area in Constitution Park.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker and several members of the Fire Department handled the instruction in use of hand fire extinguishers for the class. About 20 members of the Army Reserve under Lt. Leo C. Brannon of Company H and Lt. Forrest Boggs of Company G attended the session.

Next Tuesday from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. the Army units will receive instruction in battling forest fires and techniques used by forest wardens, at Army Reserve headquarters on South Mechanic Street. District Forester William H. Johnson will be in charge of the class meeting.

City Voting Rolls Drop To 12,785

The result was a net loss of seven voters, bringing the total registration to the 12,785 mark.

As of June 30, the records contained the names of 6,641 white men, 5,899 white women, 154 colored men and 91 colored women.

The honeycombed appearance of the concrete block walls, is to provide tie-in joints for the stone with which the entire building will be faced.

Flight Conducted In Area Search For Oak Wilt

Group Concentrates On Nearby Section

A search for oak wilt in the mountainous forests of the eastern section of Allegany County was conducted yesterday, according to William H. Johnson, district forester.

Johnson accompanied Dr. A. R. Jeffrey of Harrisburg, Pa., who is in charge of the oak wilt eradication program of nearby Pennsylvania, and also three observers of the Blair-Bedford Airways Inc. who are making the survey.

The section of Allegany County which was observed yesterday includes Martin's Mountain, Polish Mountain, Green Ridge and Town Hill.

The observers marked the possible diseased areas on topographical maps and later workmen of the Forestry Department will go into the woods and check on the areas to learn if oak wilt is prevalent.

The survey is being carried out by the University of Maryland and the State Department of Forests and Parks in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters.

Johnson pointed out that during a flight on Friday observers spotted some 11 areas which may be diseased with the wilt. They are located along Dans Mountain and Piney Mountain, 10 areas in Maryland and one in West Virginia.

However some of the areas may be those that have been checked and previously poisoned by forestry employes to eradicate the disease. A check of the suspicious areas will be made by workmen, Johnson said.

Garrett, Frederick and Washington counties will also be surveyed by air for oak wilt.

Pact Signed By Union And Concrete Firm

A contract was signed yesterday by Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL-CIO), and the Super Concrete Company.

Wage increases ranging from five to 25 cents are included in the pact, which provides for six paid holidays, one week of vacation after one year and two weeks after three years.

Time and one-half is provided after eight hours a day or 40 hours a week.

Signing for the company were R. C. Marker, president and William F. Morgan, secretary, and for the union, Charles E. Bramble, president, and Garlitz.

Also participating in the negotiations were William Smith, manager, and Clarence Lippel, attorney for the company, and C. E. Stutzman, business agent of the union.

Local 26, United Rubber Workers, (AFL-CIO) opened wage negotiations with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company here yesterday afternoon.

The union represents some 1,750 hourly-paid workers at the local tire plant.

Similar bids for wage boosts are being made throughout the rubber industry. Formal negotiations were started last week by Goodrich locals, and other locals of the Big Four are expected to present demands soon.

The wage negotiating committee includes A. E. Johnson, Leo Barkman, Raymond Adams, Clyde O'Baker and Stein.

Local 26 has scheduled a meeting of its executive board Thursday at 7 p. m., and a membership meeting Saturday at 7:30 p. m.

Picnickers Are Urged To Be Tidy

Anti-Littering Drive Under Way

One way that you and the family can keep the scenery beautiful along Maryland highways is to avoid throwing litter out of the car window while traveling through the state.

Today being the Fourth of July, thousands of automobiles will be traveling along the highways, and many thoughtless motorists will be tossing empty cartons, sacks, throwaway bottles and cans out the window.

A good practice is to keep such items in the car until you reach a point along the highway where they can be disposed of. Large trash cans are provided at various picnic sites located in the state.

Maryland's anti-highway-littering law, which provides for lines of up to $250 and jail sentences up to 90 days for throwing trash on public highways, will be getting special attention from state and county police.

A committee was named by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin in 1954 to conduct a statewide campaign to free Maryland roads of litter and carry out other projects designed to preserve Maryland's scenic beauties.

The committee is composed of civic leaders from all parts of Maryland and has the backing and cooperation of a long list of industries, clubs and the like.

"In the future," according to Col. Elmer Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, "each member of the State Police is to take special care that thoughtless violators are cautioned about their conduct, and willful violators do not go unpunished."

Remember:

Keep Maryland Beautiful.

Civil Service Regulations Are Revised

Several Major Changes Included

The Civil Service Commission has completed a revision of the present Civil Service rules for the City of Cumberland.

Copies of the revised rules have been posted on the Civil Service bulletin at City Hall.

Heads of departments have been notified by Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk and secretary for the board, of the posting of the revised rules and advised that on Friday, the board plans to have the new list of rules printed for general distribution.

The new regulations mark the first major revision made since the Civil Service law was passed in 1943, officials said.

Among the major changes in the rules are a reduction in the residence requirement from three years to two years, in order to encourage new residents of the city to apply for city positions.

The rule for temporary or seasonal employees has been modified to allow renewals in employment after a lapse of 30 days.

One of the major changes was in the rule governing military service. Under the new rule, a serviceman cannot re-enlist or voluntarily extend his term of duty and still keep permanent status as a city worker.

The leave of absence clause has been changed to provide that workers hired to fill a position during a worker's leave of absence will gain no permanent status or benefits.

Some 35 representatives from throughout the state are expected to attend the week-long session which will be conducted by the state director, R. C. Thompson of Baltimore.

This will be the sixth time the conference has been held in Frostburg and it is expected part of the theme will be concerned with the problems of overcoming physical handicaps by persons seeking employment and the employment of physically handicapped personnel by various industries.

The workshop will include numerous lectures, discussion periods and clinical work on different aspects of the agenda.

Polio Vaccine Speedup Urged In This Area

Eligibility Rules Have Been Revised

Physicians of Allegany County are being advised by the Allegany County Health Department that every child who has reached the age of three months and is under 20 years, and every pregnant woman, should have two doses of poliomyelitis vaccine as soon as possible.

The Health Department, according to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer ,is convinced that polio vaccine is safe, and will in most instances prevent paralytic poliomyelitis.

More Are Eligible

Physicians, he said, are being urged to use every effort to secure the inoculation of the first two doses, a month apart, and a third dose after six or seven months, in as many eligible individuals as possible in the families they serve.

Dr. Frantz emphasized that the age priorities for the vaccine—the 1-through-15 age group until recently, has been extended downward, to include children who are at least three months old, and upward to include 19-year-olds

All pregnant women were included in the priority group after five adult female paralytic polio cases, two of them in pregnant women, were found in a small Eastern Shore community.

May Lose Supplies

Dr. Frantz pointed out that the Maryland State Department of Health was informed recently by the U. S. Public Health Service that if vaccine supplies allotted to Maryland are not used up more promptly, some of the available supply will be withdrawn and earmarked for other parts of the country.

In a June 15 report, the State Health Department estimated that 57.1 per cent of the children in the 1-through-15 age group had received one or more shots of polio vaccine, and that 47.7 per cent of the children had received at least two shots.

B&O Passenger Train Derails At Brunswick

BRUNSWICK, Md., July 3 (AP)—The last four cars of the Baltimore and Ohio's eastbound Shenandoah passenger train derailed near this Western Maryland railroad town today. One person was reported injured and eight or nine "shaken up."

They were taken to Frederick Memorial Hospital at Frederick, Md., about 10 miles away.

Three of the four cars—all pullmans—were overturned.

B. H. Peterson, B&O road foreman at Brunswick, said the remaining eight cars and the diesel-electric engine proceeded on to Washington. The train originated at Chicago and was due in the nation's capital at 3:30 p. m. (EST). Its ultimate destination was Jersey City.

The accident occurred near the railroad yards, along the Potomac River, and several miles east of the railroad bridge over the river at Harpers Ferry, W.Va., that was damaged by fire early last month.

There was no identification of those taken to the hospital, but all reportedly were from out of state.

Leafhoppers Found In Potomac Valley Area

County Agent Joseph M. Steger and Wallace C. Harding Jr., an extension instructor in entomology at the University of Maryland, found many potato leafhoppers on alfalfa in Allegany County, especially in the Potomac River valley area yesterday.

Harding explained that the leafhoppers originate in Georgia and are carried here by winds, sometimes at speeds as great as 100 miles a day. The adult leafhopper lays her eggs in alfalfa. When the young hatch, they begin to eat the alfalfa. The feeding causes a severe yellowing and stunting of alfalfa.

The entomologist suggests that farmers spray their alfalfa with one quart of methoxychlor or one-and-one-half pints of macathion with eight to 20 gallons of water per acre seven days before the second cutting. Another spray should be applied before the third cutting.

Significance Of July 4 Emphasized

July 4 has been a red-letter day in the United States calendar ever since 1776, when the Continental Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence on that date 180 years ago today.

In the past 180 years there have been many other significant events on the anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence.

Some 42 of these events are outlined in a reference book entitled "Famous First Facts," written by Joseph Nathan Kane, which is available for reference in the Cumberland Free Public Library.

First Flag

On the very first anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence the American Flag was displayed for the first time on a man-of-war in the Portsmouth, N. H., harbor.

Twenty-five years after the declaration was adopted and signed by John Hancock, president, and Charles Thomson, secretary, of the Continental Congress, Thomas Jefferson became the first President of the United States to review military forces. That was in Washington July 4, 1801.

A number of Maryland events of significance occurred on July 4. On July 4, 1815, the cornerstone was laid for the first monument to George Washington, built in Baltimore. There was an appropriate Masonic ceremony on the occasion. Land for the monument was donated by General John Eager Howard, Maryland's Revolutionary War hero, and the funds for building the 180-foot-high shaft were obtained through a lottery.

First Completed

Twelve years after the start of Baltimore's Washington Monument, the first Washington Monument to be completed was erected in a single day, July 4, 1827, near Boonsboro in Washington County by Isaac C. Lutz.

The two signers of the Declaration of Independence who later became President of the United States died on the same day, July 4, 1826, 50 years after the 13 colonies had begun their bold bid for freedom. They were Thomas Jefferson and John Adams. Another future President of the United States, Calvin Coolidge, was born on Independence Day in 1872 in Plymouth, Vermont.

Charles Carroll of Carrollton, the only signer of the declaration who outlived Adams and Jefferson, laid the cornerstone for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in Baltimore on July 4, 1828. He was a member of the first B&O board of directors.

Another event concerning the B&O, the introduction of the first railroad car with a center aisle, was done on July 4, 1831. The car was called "The Columbus."

The cornerstone for the most famous Washington Monument, the one in the national capital, was laid on Independence Day in 1848.

An event of July 4, 1921, was a sign of things to come. On that date the first state tax on cigarets became effective in Iowa. On

Board Approves County Health Dept. Payroll

$61,418 Will Be Paid 18 Employes

Payrolls totalling $61,418.28 which Allegany County will pay some 18 Health Department officials and employes during the fiscal year which started Sunday were approved yesterday by the Board of County Commissioners.

The action was taken after Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer, appeared before the board to explain the recommendations of the Case Commission concerning salaries.

Dr. Frantz said the State of Maryland will pay the salaries of all Health Department officials and employes who are members of the State Merit System. The county will be responsible for payment of salaries of officials and employes who are not members of the merit system.

The City of Cumberland will reimburse the county for part of the salary expenses.

Included in the county payroll are Dr. Frantz, his administrative assistant, two senior stenographers, the dental clinician, seven public health nurses, five sanitarians and one janitor.

The commissioners yesterday also authorized payment of $112 to L. E. Crabtree of Oldtown as reimbursement for 14 sheep killed by dogs. Crabtree had valued the breeding ewes at $15 each, but the county can pay only the assessed valuation.

A delegation of four attended the meeting to protest the dusty condition of Potomac Hollow Road at Barton. The protestants were Mrs. William R. Porter, Mrs. Kenneth Porter, Mrs. John Fairgrieve and Cecil Moore. The commissioners promised that action would be taken in the near future.

Fourth Of July Fireworks Display Scheduled Here

The City of Cumberland will celebrate Independence Day with a concert by the Cumberland Municipal Band in Constitution Park amphitheater at 8 p.m.

Following the concert, there will be a fireworks display, set off from the brow of the park where it can be seen in virtually every section of the city.

The three swimming pools, Constitution Park, Celanese and Minke's, are prepared for large crowds. Stock car races at Potomac Valley Speedway, Fort Ashby, and a few area baseball games are expected to draw hundreds more. Still others are heading for the golf links, tennis courts, river cottages, Deep Creek Lake or other Western Maryland recreational areas to take advantage of this last summer holiday until Labor Day, September 3.

Camp Cliffside Welcomes Boys From Seven States

Boys from seven states and the District of Columbia began arriving yesterday for the season at Camp Cliffside on the South Branch River 21 miles from Cumberland and only a half mile off W. Va. Route 28 between Cumberland and Romney.

The camp period for boys, ages seven to 16, formally opens Saturday, July 7, but a score or more made arrangements to spend the Fourth of July at Camp Cliffside and stay on for the month ending August 4 when a two-weeks camp for girls begins.

Directed by William H. "Uncle Bill" Lewis, Camp Cliffside is the only such recreation centre in the Cumberland area. It has been operated continuously as a summer camp for nearly 40 years.

A large staff of councillors supervises a well rounded athletic and sports program; there is a dietitian, two cooks and a camp physician.

There are accommodations at the camp for 75 boys and entries will be accepted until Saturday. Arrangements may be made through Frostburg phone 679-J or Romney 24F022. As of noon yesterday reservations had been made for 62 boys, according to Director Lewis.

A number of those registered for this year's camp are sons of previous campers at Cliffside.

The order was passed down to the training units because the reservation last year was severely burned in some areas by fires caused by the troops during their training sessions.

The first hour of the training for the local Army Reserve units was held last night for all officers and non-commissioned officers of the two companies. The class was held in the Civil Defense area in Constitution Park.

Civil Service Regulations Are Revised

Several Major Changes Included

The Civil Service Commission has completed a revision of the present Civil Service rules for the City of Cumberland.

Heads of departments have been notified by Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk and secretary for the board, of the posting of the revised rules and advised that on Friday, the board plans to have the new list of rules printed for general distribution.

The rule for temporary or seasonal employees has been modified to allow renewals in employment after a lapse of 30 days.

One of the major changes was in the rule governing military service. Under the new rule, a serviceman cannot re-enlist or voluntarily extend his term of duty and still keep permanent status as a city worker.

The leave of absence clause has been changed to provide that workers hired to fill a position during a worker's leave of absence will gain no permanent status or benefits.
